Exchange
Of Views'

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Acting UN Secretary-General U Thant concluded his talks with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro in Havana today.

There was no indication that any agreement had been reached on UN inspection of Soviet missile removal.

A communiqué issued at the end of the talks said there was "a candid exchange of views in a cordial atmosphere."

The communiqué added that the discussions between the secretary-general and the government of Cuba "will be continued with a view toward achieving a peaceful solution of the problem."

The statement also said there was general agreement that the United Nations should participate in the settlement of the problem.

ALL POINTS COVERED

All the points raised in the secretary-general's letter of last Sunday were discussed, the communiqué said.

These points were:

1. That "a solution would be reached by which the principle of respect for the sovereignty of Cuba would be assured."

2. "Action should be taken which would reassure other countries which have felt themselves threatened by recent developments in Cuba."

There was no mention of any agreement on inspection machinery.

Thant is scheduled to return tonight to New York.

Havana radio said Castro will speak on radio and television Thursday "to analyze all the problems of the transcendental moment in which the country is living."

Cuban Buyers
$275,000
In Default

OTTAWA (CP) — The Crown-owned Export Credits Insurance Corporation has paid out $275,000 in claims in the last two years to cover non-payment by Cuban buyers of Canadian goods, it was disclosed today.

Corporation president Hugh T. Aitken told the Senate banking committee that business done by his corporation with Cuba has slumped to practically nothing from about $2,000,000 a year in 1960.

He said the corporation still was willing to insure exports to the Caribbean country but Canadian exporters had found it too risky and now were dealing almost exclusively on a cash basis.

The corporation was set up 17 years ago to insure Canadian exporters against non-payment by foreign buyers.

Castro Sends
Top Aides

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Fidel Castro is sending two top diplomats to bolster his UN team, rousing speculation that he expects to have a strong voice in any settlement of the Cuban crisis.

Diplomats at UN headquarters were surprised by the announcement from Havana that Castro had assigned Foreign Minister Raul Roa and Carlos Lechuga, ambassador to Mexico, to his delegation in New York.

U.S. Reduces Size
Of Blockaded Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy has pulled its Cuban blockade fleet into a more compact patrol area, it was learned today.

Exact boundaries of the new picket line were not disclosed. But they were reported well inside the original patrol section which started as much as 600 to 700 miles off Cuba, extending northeast toward Bermuda and eastward to the Virgin Islands.

Unarmed Chinese Retrieve Weapons

TEZPHUR, India (AP) — The Chinese Communists are throwing masses of troops at Indian outposts—some even without weapons, a front line report said Tuesday.

An Indian major's account from the battle front said some of the Chinese soldiers in the follow-up waves waited for their comrades to fall dead or wounded and then picked up their rifles and sub-machineguns to charge on.

HUNT FOR OIL

Robot Prowls Ocean Bottom

PORTE HUENEME, Calif. (AP) — The first of an army of underwater robots—capable of opening to exploration the mysterious world now hidden by water—has gone to work.

Shown publicly for the first time Tuesday, Shell Oil Company's 10-foot-tall robot, a remote-controlled $250,000 gadget that swims, sees, hears and has an arm to turn valves and wield tools.

Designed to help in the drilling and maintenance of oil fields hundreds of feet below the ocean's surface, the robot was hatched by company spokesmen as holding the key to vast oil reserves beyond the reach of conventional methods.

Dr. J. W. Clark of Hughes Aircraft Company, which built the robot for Shell, said deep water drilling is just one of many uses ahead for these mechanical men.

Dr. Clark said his firm has built six submarine robots, two for Shell and four for custom-ers he said he could not name.

Nearly all informed observers in Peking, including Western, neutral and Communist diplomats, saw the editorial in the Communist party newspaper as a reflection of Chinese displeasure at the Soviet decision, which they consider as a climbdown under U.S. threats.

The editorial, printed across the top half of the newspaper's front page, said "the most urgent task of all, peace-loving people in the world" now was to "resolutely oppose U.S. imperialists' military provocations and war threats against Cuba, hold back the bloody hands of the U.S. aggressor stretched out for an invasion of Cuba and defend the Cuban revolution."

Russia's decision to dismantle missile bases in Cuba was reported here Monday in a one-paragraph story on the inside pages of all newspapers.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Baritone Jock Dunbar, his wife and two children were foiled by the fog early today.

Advised Tuesday night that TCA planes to Vancouver might be grounded, they rose at 5 this morning and bussed out to Swartz Bay to catch the 7 a.m. ferry. But, as it happened, the planes were not grounded and they could have flown over on the 8:40 plane.

They were catching the 9:50 jet for Scotland, where Jock will begin a new singing career on TV and radio after a visit to his parents in Aberdeen.

Dean Henry F. Angus, chairman of the PUC, has a shrewd analysis of the current Cuban crisis. "The Russians," he quips, "are playing chess and the Americans foot-ball."

Past sifting of soil has turned up a couple of old coins—not quite in the collector's class but nonetheless interesting.

The other day Mrs. Crandell thought she'd hit the jackpot for a curiosity—an eight-sided brass object a bit thinner than an old quarter and bearing the inscription:

At the top was a small hole and stuck in it was a remnant of leather.

Mrs. Crandell thought she might have uncovered a medal or decoration associated with the Victoria Cross.

But a more likely theory is that she found one of Victoria City's earliest dog tags.

"I have had a wonderful time here," said Rev. Dr. Cyrus Albertson, leaving Tuesday for his home in Seattle after five weeks as guest preacher at Metropolitan United Church.

U.K. Labor Split
On Market Policy

LONDON (CP)—A high-level split has appeared in Britain's parliamentary Labor party—apartly over the party's anti-Common Market stand.

Harold Wilson, shadow foreign secretary and Labor's leading market opponent, announced Tuesday night that he will stand for the post of deputy leader under Hugh Gaitskell. The election takes place next week.

The current deputy leader is George Brown, who is unhappy about the anti-market position Gaitskell has adopted. Brown probably commands the support of the right-wing trade union group and some 30 marketeers within the party. He needs a majority of the 247 votes.

Brown has been attacked recently because of contentious television appearances, the unexpected revelation that he is earning a high salary as industrial adviser on a national newspaper, and a pro-market speech.

Most Labor MPs agree the election will be close and will likely hurt the illusion of solidarity recently acquired on the Common Market issue.

U.S. A-Sub Fleet Leads by 3 to 1

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet submarine fleet, estimated at 430 ships, is believed to be larger than that of the United States, but Western experts agree generally that the U.S. outnumbers Russia in far-ranging nuclear-powered submarines by at least 3 to 1.

Admiral Sergei Gorshkov, the Soviet Navy's commander-in-chief, reiterated today Soviet claims of superiority in rocket-armed nuclear submarines. He said:

"Our nuclear-powered submarines can rapidly and unseen reach any point in the world's oceans and destroy any target on the seas or on the shores of any aggressor."

His statement, published in the military paper Red Star, did not give the number of atomic submarines or those armed with nuclear rocket weapons.

Jane's Fighting Ships, the authoritative British manual of naval strength, estimates the number of Soviet nuclear-powered submarines at six to 12 completed or nearing completion. The Soviet Union is believed to have also 18 conventionally powered submarines armed with rockets.

The United States has launched its 33rd atomic submarine, Polaris-firing, in the Atlantic and Pacific.

Western experts have reported that submarines are the strongest arm of the Soviet fleet in a naval reorientation that puts heavy emphasis also on surface vessels converted into guided-missile carriers—every-thing from destroyers to patrol boats.

Jane's lists some 3,000 ships in the Soviet fleet. They include an estimated 25 cruisers and 165 destroyers, 500 motor torpedo boats and a host of such lesser craft as tugs and training ships.

The U.S. Navy has about 860 ships of all types in commission.

THERE'S NO EQUAL TO OLDSMOBILE!

Super 88 Holiday Sedan

Year after year, Oldsmobile's special brand of quality is taken for granted—by everybody except Olds. And here for '63, Oldsmobile has again allowed no compromise. The wheelbase is a full size 123" (126" in the Ninety-Eight)—the interiors are, as always, truly luxurious in room and appointments—the ride and response even more dramatic. Experience the result—you'll agree no car offering less can truly be called a "luxurious", "big" or even a "generous" automobile.

NEW "TILT-AWAY" WHEEL ADJUSTS

TO 7 POSITIONS*

The flick of a lever—and Oldsmobile's new "Tilt-Away" steering wheel swings up for easier entry and exit. Even while driving, you select the wheel position that suits you best—could anything be more comfortable?

Pedestrians Deserve to Get 'Run-Down' Feeling—Survey

By DESMOND BILL

"Stupid, brave, nonchalant, trusting, inconsiderate, pampered, protected."

These words—and a few more—are used to describe pedestrians in Victoria.

And it is not only motorists who say them. Pedestrians say so themselves.

The Times made a dozen telephone calls Tuesday to find what Victoria motorists think of pedestrians and what the pedestrians think of Victoria drivers.

With one exception every person asked was critical of pedestrians. The exception is Mrs. Evelyn Blencoe, a housewife who came to live here from England a year ago.

She says Victorians are much better "disciplined" than pedestrians in England. Mrs. Blencoe says Victorians "religiously wait for the lights to change before crossing the road."

'They'd Be Killed In a Week'

But Mrs. A. G. MacLeod, who also came to live in Victoria a year ago, says: "If people walked around in Quebec the way they do here they would be killed within a week."

The first time Mrs. MacLeod drove in Victoria she noticed "the nonchalant way" pedestrians walked on to crosswalks. Most of them never bothered to look left or right, she says.

John Steeves, an electrical engineer, says Victorians are much less considerate to motorists than Vancouverites. He says "at intersections they'll walk slowly right in front of you."

Mr. Steeves says that everyone is agreed on the need for more driver education. But he says the necessity for pedestrian education is just as urgent.

Pedestrian Mrs. Mary Small agrees that many persons don't bother to look for oncoming traffic before stepping into the road. She says most people depend on motorists to stop.

She added: "Mostly it is older people who are careless."

Several other persons also stated that older people are the worst offenders as pedestrians.

Motorists Don't Have Chance

Housewife Mrs. Phyllis Case is a pedestrian who finds that motorists are almost always courteous. But when she drives with her husband she has noticed "pedestrians don't give motorists a chance."

She says they step off the sidewalk without looking.

Mrs. Marilyn Cann says the reason for this is probably that pedestrians have the right-of-way at many points.

Says she: "They charge into a crosswalk even when they see traffic coming. These older people particularly don't seem to realize the difficulty in stopping a car."

Mrs. Cann travels as much as a pedestrian as a driver.

The pedestrians here are too trusting, she says.

"In New York, in contrast, no one who walks trusts anyone who drives."

A teen-age driver, Peter Seward, says: "Pedestrians on a crosswalk sometimes think they own the road."

He said old persons are the worst for dawdling in front of traffic.

"It is just as well motorists are more considerate than pedestrians. If they were not, a lot of people would be run over," he said.

TORY POLICY QUERIED

Could Canada Have Helped?

By ALEX YOUNG

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A full-scale investigation of Canada's defence and foreign policies in the light of the Cuban crisis is being sought by the Liberal opposition.

Prominent party members suspect that both policies were found wanting during the crisis. One of their chief concerns is that it took the government three full days to express its support for the U.S. while a quicker reaction was essential.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson Monday suggested a review of defence and foreign policies in these words:

"There are certain implications in the events which have taken place which concern the foreign policy and the defence policy of our own country."

"It would be well, I think, if we were now to study our own policies in the light of what happened last week and what is happening now."

Pearson did not spell out any criticisms he may have. He is expected to do this in detail tonight when he appears in the cross-Canada TV broadcast "Nation's Business."

However, it is believed one worry of the Liberal opposition concerns reports that the U.S. was displeased with Canada's role in NORAD—North American Air Defence—while nuclear war threatened.

RCAF Voodoo interceptors and Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles would have been of little assistance in combatting invading Soviet bombers, in the U.S. view. This is because they are not equipped with nuclear warheads.

One report reaching here is that the U.S. command of NORAD felt interceptors and Bomars armed only with conventional weapons would "clutter up" the sky, confusing radar controlling American interceptors with nuclear arms.

In connection with foreign policy, there are raised eyebrows over the fact the U.S. made no use of NATO treaty consultation procedures in launching its Cuban quarantine. Canada was told the action would take place, but Canada's opinion was not sought.

Whether the Liberals will make any public issue of this is not certain; to quarrel publicly might tend to indicate divisions within the Western alliance. But some effort is likely to be made to bring the point to the government's attention, so the government in turn could take up the question, perhaps, privately, with the U.S.

Another question which a defence-foreign policy inquiry would seek to answer is how Prime Minister Diefenbaker's nuclear weapons-in-emergency policy could work in such an emergency.

JUST AWAITING OFFICIAL OFFER

Fulton Ready to Accept B.C. Post at Later Date?

By ALEX YOUNG

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Is Davie Fulton leaving the federal cabinet to become leader of the Conservative party in British Columbia?

The answer, on the basis of Fulton replies to such speculation, appears to be: Not at the moment, but possibly in the not-too-distant future.

The public works minister's statements, in fact, suggest to some observers that he is just waiting for the B.C. Conservative party to officially offer him the job.

It all started when it was rumored in Vancouver that Fulton was the object of another draft-him-for-leader movement among B.C. Tories, who have been without a leader since Deane Finlayson resigned months ago.

His immediate reaction, when confronted with the rumors, was that he was "flattered" and that people who made such a proposal should be given "serious consideration."

DIDN'T SAY NO

In the past when such overtures have been made, Fulton has invariably said "no." When he refused to say "no" this time, he was questioned about it. He said:

"When people offer you something, you don't slap them in the face, do you?"

Then he was asked to describe the exact nature of the leadership offer. He replied:

"The approaches—or the rumors appear to have been renewed. It is quite flattering. But beyond that I can make no comment."

Then, late Monday after a day of expanding rumor about his impending departure, Fulton issued a formal statement on the question.

"Last night," he said, "I was asked for comment on a report that I had been invited to assume the leadership of the Conservative party in B.C. I replied to the effect that there was nothing new in this suggestion, that similar suggestions had been made for a year or more and that such suggestions were always flattering, and that those who were kind enough to make them deserved to have their suggestions considered seriously."

"The fact that I did not deny the most recent suggestion categorically is apparently being taken as evidence that his acceptance is imminent. This interpretation is not warranted."

"The fact of the matter is, as I have said, that there is nothing new in the suggestion but more important I consider it would be inappropriate for me to make formal statements of my position in matters of this kind on the basis of newspaper reports. No other significance should be attached to the current speculation."

"The current speculation comes at a time when I am immersed in the duties of a new and challenging portfolio as minister of public works. I am presently engaged in the formulation of a number of new proposals and it seems to me that my first duty would be to advance them to the point where they can be put forward in specific form in the hope that they will be accepted and implemented."

Since Fulton was transferred to the public works post in August, there have been rumors circulating in Ottawa that he was not happy in his job.

A move from the justice portfolio to public works is a demotion from the point of view of cabinet prestige, especially for a lawyer, which Fulton is.

The Outsider

NOT MANY CANADIANS, IT IS to be suspected, were satisfied with the behaviour of their Parliament in the Cuban crisis. Concerning the hard, central issue of the American quarantine, on which the whole crisis hinged, neither government nor opposition took a clear stand at the beginning. The speeches on both sides were ambiguous and waffling.

It was three days—a long time by the measurement of events—before Mr. Diefenbaker rightly dismissed argument about the quarantine as irrelevant and sterile. History will note, however, that only the New Democratic Party attacked the quarantine outright and its attitude was conditioned, as his speeches showed, by the incurable anti-Americanism of Mr. T. C. Douglas.

Ordinary citizens who have no responsibility for dangerous decisions may find it easy to criticize those who have. Understandably both government and opposition were shocked and confused by the first impact of the crisis, but there was more to it than that.

In the first place, the equivocal attitude of Canada on the quarantine, the one question that mattered then, reflected the unhappy state of our whole political system. Government is almost certain to be weak when it is minority government. Cuba taught the nation, with dramatic emphasis, that it cannot long afford a government of any party which is incapable of governing strongly.

The disability thus highlighted by an issue of foreign affairs will continue to weaken the nation's approach to many domestic affairs of little concern to the world but of great concern to Canada.

A second conclusion must be drawn from the Cuban crisis.

Pressed hard in Parliament, Mr. Diefenbaker finally said that his government had been "informed" in advance of President Kennedy's Cuban policy, though he did not say how long in advance. If the Canadian government had been consulted as an ally and close friend surely the Prime Minister would have said so. Evidently there was no consultation.

That was natural, if not inevitable, in Canada's peculiar position. Alone among the nations of the western hemisphere Canada has refused to join the Organization of American States.

Steinbeck—and a Pasternak Memory

AFTER APPLAUDING HIS selection as Nobel Prize winner for literature, John Steinbeck's compatriots and admirers all over the world may take occasion to compare domestic public and official reaction toward his triumph and that accorded another Nobel Prize winner, the late Boris Pasternak.

From the pens of both men came incisive criticism of the societies in which they lived. In the United States the majority of readers commended Steinbeck for his penetrating and often bitter analyses. In Russia the clumsy boot of bureaucracy crushed down on Pasternak when he raised the voice of protest.

Punched for Filing

AN IMPERSONAL LITTLE card from the British Columbia Telephone Company has advised local subscribers to dial only seven figures when they see a seven-figure telephone number, and thus avoid errors.

This system, says the company, is known as All Number Calling and does not require the use of letters as part of the telephone number.

There are still some phone numbers which enjoy the prefix "Evergreen" or "Granite." They are yielding, of course, to the straight numbers.

Eventually we'll all become numbers. Which may serve to remind our society of its inevitable drift into the supreme anonymity of the technical age. We'll be prisoners of progress—and prisoners don't need names, just numbers.

Next we'll be punched for easier filing, but punched in a painless sort of way, we hope.

Resolved to Go Beyond the Usual Surface Probing to Reach the 'Inward Power'

IN SEARCH OF GREATNESS, by Yousuf Karsh. University of Toronto Press. Illustrated. 210 pps. $5.50.

By STUART KEATE

SINCE this is the Great Age of the Quiz, let us begin our book review, class, by asking:

What Canadian has had his home invaded by Edward R. Murrow and his television crew for a performance of "Person to Person"?

What Canadian would permit his wife to tweak J. Edgar Hoover's nose?

What Canadian would be bold enough to move a King into another room because he (the Canadian) didn't like the light?

What Canadian would try (unsuccessfully) to sneak a simple caraway seed cookie away from William Lyon Mackenzie King?

What Canadian would make a Prime Minister angry by snatching his cigar from his mouth?

Ah, the dead give-away. Who else but Yousuf Karsh, the man with the black hat and the white camera?

The foregoing are incidents extracted from Karsh's latest book, "In Search of Greatness." There are many more, all of them underlining the fact that Karsh —who landed in Halifax as a penniless Armenian immigrant in 1925—is the greatest thing to have happened to Canada since maple syrup.

"I believe I have a good memory for good talk," says the author, in a preface to this fascinating collection of memorabilia. And he is dead right: if a picture is worth 10,000 words, then why not add the 10,000 as gilt to the portrait?

In this volume—unlike previous Karshes—the gifted Ottawa artist reverses the lens for a chapter or two to tell us something of himself. It is a unique success story, though not always a happy one. Karsh left behind him in Armenia bitter memories of cruelty, privation and torture, some of them almost too shocking for print; but arrived in Canada on New Year's Eve, 1925 with his spirit and his curiosity undiminished.

He was on his way to the Sherbrooke studio of his uncle Nakash, who in turn sent him to Boston and the studio of the celebrated portraitist, Garo. Here the young Yousuf studied at the feet of a veritable master, tended bar at his celebrity-studded parties (it was prohibition, and the "nitric acid" ordered by Serge Koussevitsky emerged from the Karsh bath as a passable gin-and-tonic) and learned a good deal about lighting and the virtues of careful photographic preparation.

By 1932 Karsh had moved on to Ottawa, with "all his possessions in two suit-cases." Here a significant event took place. A friend took him one night to the Little Theatre, and there he met Solange Gauthier, who became his wife, counselor, business manager and general inspiration.

In the pre-war years Karsh did all the things a photographer has to do to get started: the weddings, babies, men in uniform, and even $1 passport photos,

SOME YOUNG ONES ARE TOO OLD

A Night on the Prowl: Magic or Menace?

THE BEST Halloween were the ones they used to have years ago. They are adjudged best today because they are all over and done with; in other words we won't be bothered with them again. That makes them good. It is probably increasing age that leads to the firm belief that Halloween is a boring nuisance. If there is any redeeming feature it must be the very "tiny tots" who come, appropriately disguised, to the door to show their costumes, giggle in the circle of the porch light, and scamper away with a handful of confectionery that will either give them indigestion or rot their teeth.

It is popular to refer to the good old days of Halloween. Many an older will regale his friends with tales of midnight prowess in his boyhood, while condemning the antics of young folk today.

There isn't much difference, but there is a little.

There seems to be a greater spirit of lawlessness and resistance to authority today, arising from the so-called juvenile delinquency racket—the four-bit term used nowadays to mean naughty children. When they were called naughty children they did not seem to be half the problem they are with the more important-sounding term.

But from this background of impatience with restraint, of more frequent questioning of authority, of rejection of many of the old beliefs, comes a more serious approach to Halloween. For to the one-night-a-year nonsense of otherwise law-abiding young folk, there may be added the sick reaction of the misfits and victims of modern life.

Such a revolting episode as the recent destruction in a local cemetery, while not occurring on Halloween, was no doubt inspired by the general trend of the season. In other words, Halloween can become an ostensibly innocent outlet for urges that are far from merry pranks.

A few years ago a Halloween gang in Vancouver locked a youth in a shed and set fire to it. He barely escaped with his life. What were the motives? An evening's fun? Or was this the hoodlum element finding opportunity during an evening of permissible mischievousness to give release to its much more serious urges?

The point is that today, in larger cities, there are more of those urges than there used to be, and more people ready to fulfill them.

If the trend continues, the question will eventually have to be faced: Is Halloween a valuable safety valve for normal youngsters to let off steam once a year, or is it a dangerous outlet for vandalism which encourages otherwise law-abiding folk to let down the bars?

The answer may be put off a few years yet. Meanwhile the immediate concern will be answering the doorbell, admiring the visitors and administering refreshment. Ninety per cent of Halloween excitement for the very young exists only in imagination anyway. The whispers, the bobbing lights, the frantic dash away from a shadow, the furtive approach to a silent house—these are all distilled from the night and the group. Carried out alone, in broad daylight, the antics would be ridiculous.

As you get older, the daylight increases.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

'Bunch of Dumb Clods'

I am furious after reading about vandals destroying headstones and crosses on the graves at the Ross Bay cemetery. I am a teen-ager too, and it makes me so mad that a bunch of dumb clods like that can ruin the name of young people today and destroy the most beautiful place in Victoria.

You should see it in spring! The trees have the most beautiful blossoms with such a sweet smell. The bluebells are growing all over the place, bluer than anything I've ever seen, and the daffodils are growing out of the graves everywhere. Moss grows on the old markers, and ivy curs all over the graves and the trees. The trees! They are beautiful! The colors in the autumn, the lovely fresh greenness of the leaves in spring. It's refreshing to see such wonderful life springing out of death.

Pardon me for being so poetic, but that place is the most beautiful and inspiring in all Victoria. The fact that some cretinous goons, their so-called "courage" built up by drink, knock down markers, and scatter beer bottles all over it makes my blood boil! I'd like to wring their necks or send them to jail for 30 years! And the offence, destroying a thing of beauty.

I hope the place can be fixed up, and that it can be cleared up.

Maybe someone who has the funds could donate to this cause.

ANGRY TEEN-AGER.

P.S.—A relative reading my letter commented that breaking those headstones "was an affront in the eyes of God," (how sadly true!) and disturbed a memory dear to the person who loved the person in the grave.

Thoughtful, Helpful

As a subscriber and reader of your paper for the last 30 years, may I congratulate you on the editorials of Oct. 27 and 29 on the world and Cuban crisis. They were thoughtful, informative, insightive, and should be of much help to less informed people—a prime duty of first class editorials.

On the editorial page of the Times of Oct. 27 there were three other articles of note. The ones by Joseph Alsop and Walter Lippman were also informative and instructive, but unfortunately there was another article on the same page by an obviously biased, ill-informed person who I suggest should confine his extra-curricular activities in future to his reading of poetry to his "Beatnick friends."

"Getting Away With It"

The current excitement regarding Cuba demonstrates again that relations between states are still completely anarchic, and that the rule of law stops short at national frontiers.

Any state—Cuba, for example, or Canada—has a perfect legal right to set up missile bases and to equip them with nuclear war-heads. Every nation has the right to order its defences exactly as it sees fit—provided that it can "get away with it."

Similarly, every state has the undoubtedly right to declare war on another

It is strange that, although the rule of force has brought repeated disaster to nations invoking it, and great misery to nations against which it has been invoked, there has been little genuine effort to substitute the rule of law for the rule of force. Elaborate organizations—the League of Nations and the United Nations Organization—have been set up, it is true. Invariably, however, the nations have denied to these organizations both the right to define international law and the power to enforce it, and have chosen instead to perpetuate the rule of force.

Possibly, if mankind survives the present crisis, it may not reject the next opportunity to establish the rule of law.

Ladybugs

I read a dreadful thing in your paper this evening—a correspondent asking how to kill ladybugs.

This lovely little insect is one of the few beneficial to man. In England it is considered lucky to have one alight on a person.

It would be considered folly and a crime to kill a ladybug.

one of which is proudly carried today by Walter Gordon, the economist.

He also took some fine portraits, for he was resolved to go beyond the usual surface probing and reach what he calls the "inward power" of a subject.

"There is a brief moment," he writes, "when all that there is in a man's mind and soul and spirit may be reflected through his eyes, his hands, his attitude. This is the moment to record. This is the elusive 'moment of truth.'"

This moment came like a lightning bolt across the indomitable and pugnacious face of Winston Churchill in 1940 when Churchill—"ever so respectfully"—removed the cigar from the old warrior's lips. Churchill clicked the shutter and it was the "shot" heard round the world.

There have been cynics and doubters who have said that Churchill was simply lucky; that his whole career depended on the single fortuitous happenstance of the Churchillian scowl. A careful reading of the sequence of events reveals the truth of the aphorism that genius is "99 per cent perspiration and 1 per cent inspiration," for Churchill had gone to the Senate chambers the night before to prepare his set-up; had posed a stand-in who "looked like Churchill from the neck down"; and then faced the Great Man down when he threatened to become fractious. In short, he had done his homework. The thoroughness with which he was paying off.

It is interesting, incidentally, to learn from Churchill that Churchill never really forgave him for his boldness in depriving him of that choice Havana. A 1955 appointment was called off because of (a secretary told the photographer) "some unpleasantness about a cigar."

Nevertheless, Churchill remains Churchill's idol and the wartime portrait his all-time favorite.

If Churchill in this context seems a bit peevish, it is noteworthy that other world idols appear—in the presence of a camera, at least—to have feet of clay.

Actors like Danny Kaye and Gregory Peck are poor subjects, because they can't stop acting. Albert Schweitzer and the Karshes found "authoritarian." He did not want to wear glasses "because they make me look too old" and tried to persuade Karsh to photograph him in a turtle-neck sweater, a la Hemingway.

Mackenzie King was ill at ease, incapable of relaxing before Karsh's camera, and once baffled the photographer by insisting that one-eighth of an inch be dropped from the edge of a certain portrait. Over tea at Laurier House he fought the battle of the caraway-seed cake and won, admonishing Yousuf sternly: "Hold on, Karsh. That one's mine!"

To Those Who Wait

No one has singled me out as one of the country's leading fish conservationists. There really isn't any reason why I should be singled out. I happen to be a fish conservationist not through any particular conviction, design or effort.

Stott

If there is any identifiable cause for my inclination to conservation it is a certain pig-headedness in the way I fish. When I go trolling, I go somewhere between Clover Point and the head of Trial Island for salmon, or to Shawnigan Lake for trout. As far as I'm concerned, that's the limit of my concession to fish. They have to come where I am. I'm not going to chase them.

It so happens that the fish haven't been coming to where I've been in recent years. Hence I don't catch any. Consequently their ranks are not decimated by me and they can proceed to spawn where and when they wish. This, in an oblique sort of way, is my contribution to conservation.

I am prepared neither to rise before the crack of dawn to go trolling, nor will I rush all over the Island to drag a lure in places where the outdoor editors tell the public they're biting.

But it does sometimes happen that fish will come to man—a point proved years ago by my friend "Minty" White when, shagging golf balls at Oak Bay, he waded out to club a coho with a mashie as the fish swam toward him in the shallows.

And, strange as it may seem, fish came to me at Shawnigan last weekend.

The mistress of our country estate had been dissatisfied with the untidiness of the ground around our baronial mansion. She picked up my rake and set to on the leaves and twigs. By afternoon she had a commendable pile of debris—with lots more to work on—and she suggested I burn it up.

Our burning area is located close to the lake, so I can douse fires when we leave for town.

LONDON LETTER

Elsa Is a Big Seller

LONDON—Short takes... Joy Adamson, who has made a small fortune out of her two best-sellers about Elsa the lioness (Born Free and Living Free) is further tapping the gold mine with a third one—Forever Free, due for publication in November.

Probably the most dramatic of the three, it records the death of Elsa and the aftermath when the cubs ran wild, attacked native villages and were shot at with poisoned arrows before their eventual capture and transfer to a national park.

Scene is the name of a new weekly just launched here. Devoted to show business, it is—without difficulty—much more lively than Stage, the antiquated publication which has for so long covered that field.

And Scene is unique in one respect. It is the first national magazine to be produced without the use of type. All the reading matter is composed on what is called a Mono-photo Filmsetter, an automatic camera which converts authors' copy into lines of text as clear and as readable as that of any conventional magazine.

Root-Shaders Play Vital Role

By HILDA BEASTALL

Nearly all climbing plants do best if the root area is kept cool in summer by the shade of another plant. In the case of clematis, the soil needs to be particularly 11 m. high, as it has an alkaline reaction when tested, so that the shrubs chosen for shading will have to thrive in the same type soil.

Hilda

Since many gardeners will no doubt be planting clematis during this next month, a few suggestions for root-shading shrubs should be acceptable.

There are several flowering shrubs of small stature which lose their leaves in winter, or which have leaves so small as to be insignificant—an ideal arrangement since this will allow sunlight and air to reach the soil—and these will all do well in soil containing lime.

The dwarf brooms will make a dense growth of twiggy branches and can easily be kept to a height of a foot or so. Cytisus (broom) kevensis is white, and Bean's variety is yellow. Both bloom in spring.

Among the mock-oranges (philadelphus) there are two dwarf, compact varieties which would fit into almost any setting. Philadelphus "Belle Etoile" has a purplish-red centre to the large white blossoms, and probably the most delicious perfume of any; while "An ever smaller plant is "Manteau d'Hermine," bearing quantities of small, scented white flowers in summer.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS
Extensive low cloud and fog patches covered most of the south coast and southern interior early today. However, partial clearing is expected in these areas during the day and Thursday. Over northern regions rain is falling as a weather disturbance moves across the north coast. This disturbance will not affect southern B.C. Another weather system following much the same path will bring more rain to northern regions Thursday.

Teachers, Board Bog Down On Principals' Allowances

Negotiations on allowances for principals and vice-principals of Greater Victoria schools ended in a deadlock between the school board and Greater Victoria Teachers' Association Tuesday night.

Refusal of the board to agree to the $240 for principals and $120 for vice-principals asked by the teachers as annual increments over a three-year period stemmed from the fact that principals' and vice-principals' salaries are due to be decided by conciliation agreed to last week.

SEPARATELY

Whereas salaries for administrators are part of the pay scale to be determined now by conciliation, allowances are settled by separate negotiation.

"If you are going to get half what you asked for on the basic salary scale, you're going to do very well," trustee David Logan told the teachers.

The school board had refused to consider any salary increase of four per cent or more. Teachers want an over 11 per cent increase.

Greater Victoria Teachers' Association presented standing administrative allowances in the Vancouver school district as a basis for comparison. However, some difficulty arose in finding common ground for comparison due to the differences in sizes of the schools and numbers of pupils in classes in the two districts.

SOME BETTER

The school board contended that on a per-pupil basis administrative allowances already were better than in Vancouver in some cases.

During the nearly two-and-a-half hour bargaining session Mr. Logan observed that the need for revision of vice-principals' allowances was not as pressing.

"Their responsibilities are never onerous so long as the principals are there," he said.

Spokesman for the teachers, Norman Sewell, pointed out that this depended upon how much the individual principal delegated responsibility. In addition, under the Public Schools Act, vice-principals were responsible directly for such matters as pupil discipline and sports.

Mr. Logan also pointed out that Vancouver teachers were not seeking a revision of administrators' allowances this year. However Mr. Sewell warned that the board would do well to revise Victoria allowances now.

ACT NOW

"We haven't asked for an adjustment in the last five years and perhaps we won't for the next five," he said.

He added it might be worthwhile for the board to revise these at the expense of paying more than the Vancouver board for the first year or so.

Mr. Logan expressed the opinion that Vancouver teachers might use a Greater Victoria scale as comparison in their submissions next year, just as local teachers are doing with Vancouver now.

Tourist Competition From Tibet, Moon!

Vancouverites will commute to Victoria and Los Angeles residents will come here for a weekend outing.

That's the kind of future the city should prepare for, Capital Region Planning Board director Anthony Roberts told Victoria Kiwanis Club Tuesday.

He warned that the continuous revolution of modern transportation will continue to chop travelling time. This will put Victoria into serious competition with exotic and remote places for tourist traffic such as Tibet and even, someday, the moon.

Mr. Roberts predicted that events will make Victoria a residential, recreational and educational centre with tourist appeal if nothing is done now to spoil the area's assets.

He commended city council for trying to prevent erosion of the downtown heart of the city through a variety of parking, traffic and rehabilitation projects.

He strongly urged support for a campaign to improve the Inner Harbor by strengthening the Causeway, dredging the

30 Districts Settle With B.C. Teachers

VANCOUVER (CP) — Thirty of B.C.'s 82 school districts have reached agreement for 1963 salary scales, it was learned Tuesday.

The average wage hike for teachers is about 2.5 per cent, with biggest increases going to teachers with masters degrees and long service.

Negotiations throughout the remainder of the province are tightening up, with today the deadline for bringing in conciliation officers.

Last year the average hike across the province was less than one percent.

300,000 Canadians Sign for Sweepstakes

CALGARY (CP) — Mrs. Mary English, back from a 10,000-mile campaign trip across the country, says she has the names of 300,000 Canadians who want legalized sweepstakes.

The dynamic, 52-year-old housewife who left here six weeks ago with $250, said Tuesday night she found overwhelming support for the project, conducted by an organization called Operation Sweepstakes.

"In Ottawa, especially, I was practically run off my feet."

Youth Gangs Harass Ont. Town

STRATHROY, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Ralph Westgate promised Tuesday to call in the militia if the town's four-man police force cannot put an end to vandalism and fire-setting by youth gangs involving more than 30 youths.

Branches of Operation Sweepstakes have been organized in the British Columbia cities of Vancouver, Victoria, Prince Rupert and Trail, and in Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Edmundston, N.B., Halifax and Montreal.

The petition prepared by Operation Sweepstakes will go before the House when the bill comes up for debate in possibly three weeks.

Fires have been set in the main street, stones hurled through windows and for the last two weeks the fire department in this town of 4,900 has received four or five false alarms a night.

Volunteer firemen have become tired from the constant calls, which usually come between 10 p.m. and 4 a.m.

For the last 11 nights the fire siren has not been sounded because, says Fire Chief Harold Frank, "we've got to let the residents get some sleep too."

Residents of Strathroy, about 20 miles west of London, expect the hooliganism to reach a peak tonight — Halloween.

The shot was rescheduled for Wednesday.

Terms Settled On Foul Bay Road

Terms for a proposed $150,000 Foul Bay Road reconstruction were agreed to Tuesday night by a joint meeting of Oak Bay and Saanich works committees.

Members agreed to recommend to their councils that the work be started probably early in the new year—providing a 44-foot-wide thoroughfare leading to the university district almost from Oak Bay Avenue.

Estimated cost per municipality is $70,000, including the removal of 35 oak trees from the road allowance north of Neil Street, and the planting of ornamental trees along the boulevards.

It was planned originally to leave the ancient oak trees where they stood, creating parking bays between them to achieve greater use of the rebuilt street, but the committees decided the trees would have to come out ultimately and then would create an added expense.

Residents Support Tree Removal

They were supported by a petition circulated by Sidney Smart, 2969 Foul Bay, to residents living between Neil and Cochrane.

He claimed the trees were half dead, and by removing them the municipalities would make Foul Bay and a number of intersecting streets safer for traffic.

"They're a nuisance, they're a danger and they should come out," Mr. Smart said.

Saanich Reeve Stanley Mur-

Owners to Pay Extra $24 a Year

Proposed terms will mean the average 60-foot property on Foul Bay will be assessed an extra $24 a year for 20 years on both Saanich and Oak Bay sides of the street. (Property owners will be asked to authorize a local improvement project.)

This is about 16 per cent of the total cost, which is contributed to by about 20 per cent through senior government winter works aid.

The finished street will be paved, have curbs, gutters, sidewalks, drainage, new mercury street lighting and grass boulevards.

'Medic-Alert' Tags Help in Emergency

Parents of children with an allergy or medical condition that could complicate an emergency have been urged to join Canadian Medic-Alert Foundation Inc.

The non-profit organization with headquarters in Toronto provides metal tags to be worn by people with a health problem for the information of police, firemen, first aid men, hospital staffs and doctors in the event that the individual becomes an accident victim.

Some 85,000 men, women and children in Canada and the U.S. are protected by the Medic-Alert tag.

Negotiator J. R. Grealy, general chairman of Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, said the company and Victoria Local 276 had agreed upon no terms.

Their offer of a wage increase he termed "ridiculous," but the union is open to a new suggestion at any time, he said.

Employees asked for a five-cent, across-the-board, hourly increase for the 100 occupational classifications covered by the certification. They also sought adjustments for some rates and other fringe benefits.

Theodore H. Stephens, 255 Quebec, pleaded not guilty to a charge of breaking and entering, and was remanded to Thursday for trial.

He is one of three youths charged with stealing a safe from an auto-wash establishment at 855 Pandora Oct. 21.

Kenneth Jay, 563 Burnside, who earlier pleaded guilty to the charge, was to have been sentenced today. However, the probation officer's report was not ready and he was further remanded to Friday.

The third accused, Ronald A. Curran, no fixed address, also is scheduled for trial Thursday.

Dr. Charles Gregory, director of the Victoria Mental Health Centre, will address the next general meeting of the Victoria Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children Thursday, 8 p.m., Spencer house, 1251 Cook Street.

His subject will be "Early Signs of Mental Illness in Children."

Marvin Smith, Work Point Barracks, appeared in Esquimalt police court Monday to change his plea of not guilty to guilty on a charge of loitering on private property.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wright told police they saw the accused under a bathroom window, bathed in the light from inside, when they came home the night. He had darted behind a tree when spotted.

He gave no explanation to police for his actions.

Smith was remanded to Nov. 5 for probation officer's report and sentence.

The annual masquerade party of St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society will be held Thursday at Holyrood House. The party will start with a costume parade at 8 p.m.

Sam Arrowsmith will speak on uses of plastics in greenhouse at the Gordon Head Garden Club's Monday meeting, 8 p.m., in the community hall on Tyndall Avenue.

Does Smoking Cause . . .

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Sir Stanford Cade, chairman of the cancer and radiotherapy committee of the British health ministry, said here Monday night that smoking is a contributing cause of lung cancer.

"Let's face the facts," Sir Stanford said in the University of Western Ontario's undergraduate lecture series. "It may not be the only cause, but it is a big contributing cause. Heavier smokers have a larger death rate from cancer than lighter smokers and lighter smokers have a heavier death rate than non-smokers."

He said 23 separate investigations in nine countries have proven there is more incidence of cancer in smokers than non-smokers.

... Or Doesn't It?

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A San Francisco radiologist testified in U.S. district court Tuesday that cigarette smoking rarely causes cancer.

Dr. Leo M. Garland, clinical professor of radiology at the University of California, said that therefore no medical authority could say with reasonable certainty that smoking caused lung cancer in Otto Pritchard.

Pritchard, a 64-year-old carpenter, is suing the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company because he says smoking Chesterfield cigarettes gave him lung cancer.

Dr. Garland, appearing as a defense witness, disputed Pritchard's contention when questioned by William H. Eckert, counsel for Liggett and Myers.

"You say that cancer of the mouth, throat and trachea windpipe is rare, compared with the cancer of the lung?" Eckert asked.

"No, cancer of the mouth, nose and throat is not too rare, but cancer of the trachea is extremely rare," the doctor replied.

Eckert then asked Dr. Garland to explain the significance of his last statement.

"In the case of people who inhale, the concentration of cigarette smoke inhaled must be thousands of times greater in the mouth, throat, vocal chords and trachea than it is in the lungs," Dr. Garland said.

"Now, if smoking is the cause of lung cancer, why is earth isn't it a cause of tracheal cancer and mouth cancer?" he asked.

"The frequency of trachea cancer is perhaps one in 500 compared to lung cancer and most lung cancer starts in the outer parts of the lung where the concentration of cigarette smoke is still lower."

New Holiday Plan For CS Talked Out

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill to give all government employees eight statutory holidays a year was "talked out" in the Commons Tuesday.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) put forth the measure as a private member's bill providing for payment of double pay above normal wages for those obliged to work on any of eight suggested holidays.

Although none of the MPs who spoke took issue with the principle of the bill, two government members challenged the provision for double time in cases where the holidays were worked.

Cancel Exercise

TOKYO (Reuters) — The Japanese defence board says the United States Army in Japan has informed the board of the cancellation of its manoeuvres scheduled for later this year in southern Japan.

A 24-hour telephone service is maintained and in cases of emergency, collect calls are accepted from hospitals, police and persons of authority.

The tag is obtainable as a disc for wearing around the neck or on a charm bracelet, or as a curved emblem with heavy chain identification bracelet.

Membership in the organization is $5, plus 20 cents handling charge, and includes free engraving of the sterling silver or stainless steel tag with medical information.

The council congratulated Dr. McLeod for his declaration of what is an obvious fact.

B.C. Farmers To Try Again On Tax Probe

Sixteen Vancouver Island farm organizations at the B.C. Federation of Agriculture annual convention next week are expected to support a resolution calling again for a royal commission to investigate present methods of taxation.

The two-day convention will open at the Royal Towers Hotel in New Westminster Monday.

Taxation of rural lands will be the main subject discussed at this year's meeting of the BCFA which represents 16,000 farmers.

The subject was raised in a resolution submitted by the Vancouver Island Farmers' Institute strongly protesting the present assessment and taxation policy.

BROADER CREDIT

Island organizations have submitted 15 other resolutions. One of these is from Lower Vancouver Island Poultry Producers' Association requesting the federal government to broaden the provisions of the Farm Credit Loan Act.

SEATTLE (AP)—The new president of the Pacific Logging Congress said Tuesday the overriding problem of northwest loggers is "racing the bark beetle for billions of feet of downed timber."

Public Attitude Vital Factor, Says Motor Chief

NANAIMO (CP)—As long as the public accepts traffic accidents as routine, they will continue to happen, says George Lindsay, B.C. superintendent of motor vehicles.

But in a city like Trail, where the public won't put up with the situation, there hasn't been a fatal motor vehicle accident for years, Mr. Lindsay told a meeting here.

In the five years between 1957 and 1961 Nanaimo and district suffered 25 highway and street fatalities, 687 injuries and more than $1,000,000 in property damage, he said. So far in 1962 figures in all three classifications have increased.

Mr. Lindsay said all sorts of people cry for action, then cry through various organizations about "loss of livelihood" when they lose their licences for an offence.

He suggested a long look at the law governing repeated offenders, which requires a witness for every previous offence, making it "almost impossible" to convict a repeater.

Mr. Lindsay said all sorts of people cry for action, then cry through various organizations about "loss of livelihood" when they lose their licences for an offence.

The association realized $188 from the event, and proceeds will go into the SPCA general fund.

On sale were plants, shrubs, home-cooked foods, books, magazines and garden produce.

Miss Waldon said: "There was not as large a crowd as there could have been, but those who did attend came with the idea of buying. We sold everything."

DUNCAN—For causing a disturbance by fighting outside the local RCMP station, Charles G. Reekie and Frederick J. Button, both of Victoria, have been each fined $10. Mr. Button was also fined $45 for speeding.

"WHAT THE GOLD CREST FUNERAL PLAN MEANS TO YOU"

The story behind Canada's first prepaid funeral expense insurance plan.

Many people ask about the Gold Crest Funeral Plan. Since it is the first such insurance plan in Canada, people naturally are curious. They almost always ask the same question, "What's the difference between the Gold Crest Plan and other plans?"

"There's a big difference," they are told, "a big difference." And these are the six facts that help them—and you—find the answers about prepaid funeral expenses:

(1) First, The Gold Crest Plan is insurance. That's right, insurance. And as you know, insurance is designed to give you cash in an emergency. Death is an emergency. You make only small regular payments to maintain your coverage. This is also how The Gold Crest Plan works. It provides you with the cash you'll need to meet the costs of final illness and burial of someone in your family.

(2) The plan is NOT a sales gimmick. The representative that calls at your door does not sell cemetery lots or tombstones. He does not recommend vault-makers or funeral directors. He presents insurance and insurance only.

(3) The plan is guaranteed. It is underwritten by the Seaboard Life Insurance Company that carries required cash reserves. Your funds are protected by law.

(4) The plan is stable. Seaboard alone has $1 million in paid up capital and over $200,000 on deposit with the Provincial Department of Insurance.

(5) This same Dept. of Insurance licences all Gold Crest representatives. And each and every Gold Crest representative is bonded. Only this plan can offer such ironclad financial security.

(6) Prepaid funeral expense insurance is accepted. It has been sold throughout the United States. It has been extremely well-received there. Why? Simply because it is the commonsense, businesslike way to plan ahead instead of waiting to make these difficult decisions during a period of stress and worry.

In a nutshell, the plan guarantees you $300 to $3,000 with your first small payment. It is good anywhere in the free world. It's available to you until you are 90 years old. You may choose any funeral director, any burial lot, and ceremony. You consult with your own funeral director for arrangements. Gold Crest only see that you're able to make your decisions calmly and with peace of mind.

Every family should get the details of this plan, today. You'll find sound counsel from the Gold Crest Plan. Investigate it today by mailing in this coupon.

Real Romance Starts 20 Long Years Later

Howard Whitman, noted writer on human affairs, in this series, points ways to make your marriage more vibrant, more exciting — more like you always dreamed it would be.

By HOWARD WHITMAN

In a class on family living, a pert young girl got up on her feet and said with vigor, "What do my parents know about love — they've been married for 20 years!"

Well, I suppose it all depends on what you mean by love.

A teen-age boy said to me, "I know I love Margaret, because if she doesn't go to the prom with me I'll never speak to her again."

Or how about this definition: The late Dr. Abraham Stone, an outstanding marriage counselor, said, "Some people use the word 'love' as though they were saying something like 'I love oranges.' Well, if an orange could talk back it would say, 'You say you love me. But all you really want to do is squeeze me, get the best out of me, and then throw me away!'

There's also the famous quip of psychiatrist Alfred Adler. When he heard from a mutual acquaintance that a very self-centred woman had fallen in love he asked, "Against whom?"

In Pittsburgh, the Allegheny County marriage licence bureau got quite a jolt when it received a letter from a man who had once been sufficiently head-over-heels in love with a girl to marry her but had now forgotten her name. His query read:

"Gentlemen—I was married in Pittsburgh some years ago. I don't like to admit it but I have forgotten the name of the woman I married. Will you kindly send the name to me?"

Much to Learn

The marriage licence bureau obliged. But it could hardly affirm that the love which sends some couples into marriage is precisely imperishable.

There is, to be sure, a great deal to be learned about love, many angles from which to view it, much searching if one is to find its essence. But, in all, the prime question must be: Is it real?

At one of its conferences the British Marriage Society came out with a flat conclusion that "there is no such thing as love at first sight." Call it love if you will, the British marriage advisers allowed, but it just isn't real.

That doesn't mean it isn't powerful. The phenomenon of precipitate attraction is known as infatuation, once described by George Bernard Shaw as "the most violent, most insane, most delusive, and most transient of passions."

"To infatuate—" says Webster, "To inspire with a foolish and extravagant passion; to affect with folly; to weaken the intellectual powers of, or to deprive of sound judgment."

Perhaps what the high school girl meant, when she doubted her parents knew much about love because they had been married 20 years, was really that they didn't know much about infatuation.

Sharp Boost In Divorces

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of divorced Canadians is rising sharply but still accounts for less than one per cent of the population, the Dominion-Bureau of Statistics indicated today.

A report on the 1961 census showed that the number of divorced persons who have not remarried rose to 52,592 from 36,768 five years earlier and 31,993 in the 1951 census.

The figure contrasted sharply with totals of 661 divorced persons in 1901 and 7,447 in 1931. Divorcees made up 0.3 per cent of the total population, up from 0.2 per cent in 1956.

Divorced women again outnumbered men, 30,495 to 22,097.

Ontario had the largest divorcee population, with 21,776. British Columbia and Alberta followed with 11,558 and 5,900 respectively. Quebec was next with 5,242.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Tuesday: Ronald C. Brighton, 1329 Denman, 20 days in prison, and two-year suspension from driving, driving under suspension, and $20 over 30 mph.

Leonard G. Dyson, 401 St. Charles, $30 and licence suspension, failure to yield to pedestrian.

James Rogers, 910 Market, $40, careless driving.

Raymond D. Boyce, 1242 Fort, $10, no driver's licence.

Zone Plan Unprecedented

DEATH in Oregon's gas chamber faces Jeannace June Freeman, 21, following sentence by Judge Robert Foley Tuesday.

Only executive clemency by Gov. Mark Hatfield can save Miss Freeman from being the first woman to be executed by state.

Mrs. Freeman, along with Mrs. Gertrude Jackson, were convicted of hurling Mrs. Jackson's two children to their deaths in deep gorge. Mrs. Jackson received life imprisonment.

Love achieves a new dimension. It is no longer a matter of pursuing, of winning the girl or catching the boy. Boy and girl have each other.

If their infatuation hinged on "wanting what you can't have," or on novelty, or on conquest, then, ipso facto, these were the most frequently mentioned: "Good-looking," "Cool," "Smooth dresser," and "Ex-citing."

Contrast these with the qualities most frequently mentioned by married women, deeply in love with their mates: "Considerate," "Tender," "Masculine," and "Loyal."

We live, unfortunately, in an age which panders to romantic infatuation but has little to say of romantic love. The male-female relationship is depicted in our fiction and in our films as a cheesecake chase, conquest, the allure of surface qualities such as bust measurement, and, in the sicker offerings, as a frenetic rush to the boudoir without thought of any deep personal or moral relationship. This is a childlike, a candy-grabbing attitude.

Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec, great as a painter, but maladjusted to life, is reputed to have said out of the depths of his own failure to find happiness, "Marriage is a dull meal with the dessert first."

And never a truer word was spoken: marriage is to be based on infatuation.

Just Beginning

But where love develops over the years, that "dessert" to which Toulouse-Lautrec referred becomes only an aphorism for a life-long repast of happiness.

"It is believed," states New York's Dr. Erich Fromm, "that to fall in love is already the culmination of love, while actually it is the beginning; it is only an opportunity for the achievement of love."

Or, as Dr. William G. Hollister, of Birmingham, Alabama, puts it, "You don't fall in love — you climb up to love."

It's a difficult climb. The girl who is infatuated with her knight in shining armor must learn to love that same knight in a shiny blue serge suit.

Young marrieds sometimes think they are "falling out of love" when some of the early excitements of their relationship wear off. They are not falling out of love. They are falling out of infatuation.

Whether they will climb upward into love is up to them. You see, knights in shining armor really don't exist. The man in the shiny blue serge suit is real. Can you love him?

And that goes, too, for the girl whose strapless formal has turned into a kitchen apron.

A marriage course prepared at the University of Ottawa, offers this counsel: "After the first bloom of love has passed, when you no longer thrill to the mysteries and discoveries over which you once sighed, something happens — a crisis arises. . . . Emotional satisfaction has gone and seemingly nothing has come to replace it."

"This period of aridity is a time when we are preparing and are being prepared, for a fuller love that will show us

Proposed rezoning of golf course acreage in Oak Bay would set a precedent aimed at preserving open green space for benefit to the whole community.

At the same time, zoning golf courses for specific golf and country club use may have the effect of keeping down the rising tax burden on such clubs, now zoned as undeveloped land.

The plan was discussed Monday night by Oak Bay zoning and planning development committee and is endorsed by chairman Coun. J. D. Watts, who said he knows of no precedent.

Municipal assessor Colin Wyatt was asked to report at a later date on whether in his opinion the proposal would have the effect of lowering assessments.

A council may use its discretion to exempt a portion of a club's assessment, thus reducing taxes.

However, if there were re-zoning, a public hearing would be required before council action is taken.

Coun. Watts said land taxes have risen rapidly in the past few years and there is some concern that golf lands might be converted by subdivision to residential use by their owners.

He said the local club had not complained yet about their tax bills, but "what they are doing is to alter this much, he felt, pointing out that there exists provision in the Municipal Act for easing of taxes on recreational lands.

Marriage Mixup Testimony

'No Alternative'
To Divorce Pact

VANCOUVER (CP)—Anabelle Rees-Davis testified Tuesday she did not believe she was a party to a divorce pact with her doctor-husband and another doctor.

She said she went through with it because she had no alternative.

Mrs. Rees-Davis, who now claims the pact was fraudulent, is seeking to have her divorce from eye-specialist Dr. James Fortin Minnes, 53, set aside and her subsequent marriage to surgeon Dr. Peter Ethridge Rees-Davis, 49, annulled.

The attractive 33-year-old says the divorce agreement specified that she sign over her share in the Minnes residence and custody of her three children to Minnes. Minnes agreed not to use Rees-Davis' name as co-respondent if he agreed to marry her when the divorce was obtained.

Under cross-examination Tuesday, Mrs. Rees-Davis said she took no part in a discussion of the proposed agreement.

JUST LISTENED

"All I did was listen," she said.

She agreed, however, that she later signed over the house and the children.

"I made up my mind to marry Dr. Rees-Davis because I had no other alternative," she said.

"Things were in enough of a mess. An agreement had been made and I felt I had to go through with it."

She said the two doctors had told her she was a party to the agreement but she felt she was not directly involved.

"I was very sorry for what I had done to Dr. Minnes," she said.

Earlier, Mrs. Rees-Davis told how she tried to cover up an adulterous tour of Europe with Rees-Davis by writing sweetheart letters to her husband.

WANTS CHILDREN

Angelo Braneti, counsel for Dr. Minnes, asked Mrs. Rees-Davis what she expected to get out of her suit should the judge rule in her favor.

"I want my children," she said.

"Do you expect to go back to Dr. Minnes' household?" asked the lawyer.

"I am not making any assumptions ... I would go back to his household and attempt to raise my children ... they want me there," she said.

She testified that Rees-Davis "already had another woman friend" before she married him.

"It was a mess," she said.

SMOKIES MUZZLE PRO CLUBS

TRAIL — Trail Smoke Eaters, an amateur team without a league to play in, might do well to consider lining up with the Western Hockey League.

In four exhibition games against WHL opposition, the Smokies have won two, lost two. Trail edged Seattle Totems 4-3 Tuesday for its second victory. Earlier, Smokies defeated Spokane 8-1, after Comets won a first game 12-5. In the fourth exhibition, Smokies were edged, 3-2, by Vancouver Canucks.

Harry Smith, Gerry Penner, Dave Russell and Addy Tambellini scored Trail's goals Tuesday. Don Ward, Bob Barlow and Bill MacFarland counted for Seattle before a turnout of 2,000 fans.

BLUES BELTED

Hawk Line Hot

By The Canadian Press
Chicago's scooter line is zooming at high speed. The line, with Ab McDonald on left wing, Stan Mikita at centre and Ken Wharam on right wing, had a hand in all five goals Tuesday night as the Hawks defeated New York Rangers 5-3 in the only National Hockey League game scheduled.

McDonald, who wasn't good enough for Montreal Canadiens two years ago, chalked up two goals and assisted on another to jump into first place in the NHL scoring race with five goals and six assists for 11 points.

The Hawks haven't lost a game since the return of Mikita, who was injured in pre-season play and came back four games ago. The smooth all-star scored one goal and assisted on two others against the Rangers.

Al McNeil gave the Hawks the lead at 8:23 of the first period, followed by Wharam and Mikita.

Wharam made the score 2-0 at 6:51 of the second period on a pass from McDonald.

HAMPSON SCORES

New York scored their first goal at 0:56 of the third period when Ted Hampson fired his second of the season while his team was shorthanded.

Mikita counted his third goal of the season at 2:19 in the third period, making it 3-1 for the Hawks.

McDonald scored his first goal of the game when Mikita set him up at 4:47 of the third period.

Dean Prentiss added the second goal for New York at 8:05 after stickhandling the length of the ice. But McDonald countered when he fired home a pass from Wharam at 11:04.

Earl Ingarfield of the Rangers wound up the scoring by tallying on passes from Doug Harvey and Prentiss at 16:15.

The victory moved the Hawks to within a point of the league-leading Detroit Red Wings. The Wings have 12 points, to Chicago's 11.

TYEES TO WATCH

Performances during regular Inter-High School Soccer League season indicate at least two of these Victoria High forwards will bear watching Friday night when Tyees oppose Oak Bay in city final. Ankle injury may keep Derek Prisenberg (left) out of action, but definitely heading for championship match are Ron Stubbings and Nirmal Dillon (right). Stubbings topped league scoring with nine goals. Friday's windup under lights at Royal Athletic Park is expected to draw largest soccer crowd of season.

SOCCER FINAL FRIDAY

Good Reason for Enthusiasm

From a standpoint of noise and numbers, the city high school soccer championship rates as the gala event on the fiba calendar.

When they decided to stage last year's playoff under Royal Athletic Park lights, the championship match between Victoria High Tyees and Mount View Hornets attracted about 1,000 fans. And, it might be added, more noise than it seemed possible those fans could make.

This year's affair should be even bigger and better. Victoria High (pop. 1,537) is back in the playoff again. Friday's opposition is tendered by league champion Oak Bay (pop. 1,095).

Since Oak Bay's student body is considerably larger than Mount View's, there is good reason that this year's turnout will surpass last year's total. And, of course, families, friends and fans are expected along with students from the rival schools.

DON'T FORGET EAR PLUGS

Not to be overlooked, however, is the match. That, too, shows promise of extreme interest.

There seems to be little difference between the two teams. Oak Bay finished first with a scant one-point margin over coach Dave Price's Tyees. The champion Greens won six, lost one and tied one. Tyees had a 6-2 won-loss record.

Even the goals-for and goals-against totals are well-balanced. Oak Bay scored 19, allowed eight. Tyees scored 17 while giving up seven. Nine of Vic High's total were counted by Ron Stubbings, the lanky inside who led the league in that department.

Kickoff is at 7:30—and bring ear plugs!

WILT FIRES 59 POINTS —HITS 10,000 MARK

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain scored the 10,000th point of his National Basketball Association career Tuesday night as he led San Francisco Warriors to a 125-106 victory over New York Knickerbockers.

The seven-foot-one giant got 59 points to lead the game's scorers and run his NBA total to 10,033. Chamberlain is starting his fourth season as a pro.

Top, Bottom Berths Puck Stakes Tonight

More daylight is expected in team standings when the smoke clears from tonight's IAA Commercial Hockey League twin bill at Memorial Arena.

At stake are the coveted top berth in the four-team circuit and the unwanted cellar position.

Duncans and Kings will try to settle the top spot when they clash in the night's second game at 9:30. They are currently deadlocked with three points each from a win and a tie in their first two outings.

Only a draw in the first game at 8:15 can prevent either Duncans or Northwesters from snapping a tie for third and fourth places. They will both be starting with a single point, after managing only a tie-apiece in their first two starts.

CANADIAN HOPE

TORONTO (CP) — Tony Spiss, former Austrian Olympic and world ski medalist, will represent Canada in the world professional championships at Aspen, Colo., Dec. 15-16.

REGINA (CP) — Harvey Wylie of Calgary Stampeders set a Western Football Conference kickoff-return record in the 1962 season and as many as four other records may fall before the season ends.

Bill Hawrylak, league statistician, announced today that Wylie returned 28 kickoffs for a 31.2-yard average and a total of 876 yards this year. Best previous performance was Leo Lewis' kickoff-return total of 854 yards for Winnipeg Blue Bombers in 1958.

Almost certain to top the field this season was Ken Ploen's completion of 135 of 205 passes tried, for a completion average of 65.8 per cent. Frank Tripucka of Saskatchewan Roughriders set a record of 61.48 per cent in 1955.

Also in danger are individual records for average gain on passes, total distance gained on passes and number of passes caught.

U.S. Rider Scores

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Chapot of the U.S., riding in the third jumpoff, won the first international jumping event—the Mackay Memorial Challenge Trophy—as the National Horse Show opened an eight-day run in Madison Square Garden Tuesday.

As referee-in-chief he holds clinics throughout the west, and before leaving for Stockholm is committed to handle 22 clinics from the Lakehead to Vancouver Island.

"I like international hockey. You don't get the high-sticking and roughness you do in Canadian hockey. Ours is still modified on the NHL."

"But they still can be pretty rough. In one game last year we handed out 22 penalties and in another there were 32. That was between Japan and Australia."

Lindquist is by no means a major leaguer when it comes to ability. He has turned down offers to play for the National Hockey League Chicago Black Hawks and to referee in the NHL.

"All they were offering were one-year contracts at that time, and I just couldn't afford to give up a secure job. By the time the NHL wanted me to referee, I had five kids. I'm glad now I stayed here."

TEE TOPICS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Indirectly, Stan Leonard of Vancouver draws an assist on the play that helped Canada to a second-place finish in the World Cup golf tournament in Japan a few weeks ago.

Bill Wakeham, who returned to Victoria Tuesday and stayed with us while we completed this two-part interview, says the Canadian team played the smaller-sized British ball because of the advice offered by Leonard.

"When we were playing our final practice round at Capilano before flying to Japan, Stan asked us if we planned on using the smaller-sized ball," said Wakeham. "We hadn't thought of it."

"He told us we'd be wasting our time if we didn't use the small ball. We didn't have any on hand and, apparently, it's almost impossible to get a top-grade ball in Japan, but Stan managed to scrape up a dozen and gave them to us."

"With only three balls, I wasn't going to use any for practising. I waited until the tournament got going before I found out there is a difference."

(For the technically-minded, the English ball's diameter is 1.625 inches compared to 1.68 for the U.S. ball.)

Second Three-Putt Brought Tears

The female caddy is part and parcel of golf in Japan. The Canadian contingent came away quite impressed.

"The caddies were really pulling for us. During that last round, I three-putted the 14th and the 15th. My caddy broke right down and cried."

The same thing happened to Bob Wylie.

"Most of these girls had never seen the Kawana course. Except for about eight, all of them were brought in from various parts of Japan."

"They were very good at clubbing. I'm not used to asking a caddy to club for me," Wakeham continued, "but the Susie that caddied for me always had the club I wanted."

"I might have had a seven iron in mind. When I turned around, she'd have it in her hands . . . ready and waiting."

"Best caddy I ever had . . ."

Wakeham paused, thought for a moment, and then quickly added: ". . . apart from Al MacLeod (a George Vale member who toed Bill's clubs when Wakeham won the B.C. Amateur title at Oak Bay this summer)."

"But MacLeod wasn't as good-looking."

New Head Covers Rated Extra Tip

The girls, who were paid about 1,000 yen ($2.80), were hired by the Japanese-Golf Association. Competitors were not supposed to tip, but Wakeham said almost every golfer ignored the "no tipping" regulation.

During the course of the 72-hole tournament, the caddies for the Canadian team (Wakeham, Wylie, Gary Cowan and Nick Weslock) knitted head covers for woods and presented them to the players.

Wakeham was lavish in his praise of the U.S. team that won the Eisenhower Trophy with an eight-stroke margin over the second-place Canadians. The U.S. squad, which consisted of Dick Sykes, Lebrun Harris, Billy Joe Patton and Deane Beman, was two-strokes up heading into the fourth and final round.

"That had to be the greatest finishing round ever," suggests Wakeham.

The U.S. could have sent (Arnold) Palmer, (Jack) Nicklaus, (Gene) Littler and (Gary) Player over to the tournament, and I doubt very much if they would have shot 205 (five under par) on that last day. I'm damn sure they wouldn't!

U.S. Chaps Both Good and Popular

"Actually, some felt the American team wasn't overly strong. We thought they were as good as they could possibly get . . . That Beman has to be the world's best putter . . . fabulous!"

"The Americans were a bunch of real good guys, very friendly and quick to mingle."

Memories of Japan and the side trips to Hong Kong and Hawaii are fresh, but also clinging to mind are sounds that made this the greatest year ever for Wakeham . . . The B.C. Amateur victory, reaching the quarter-finals of the Canadian Amateur, and selection to both the World Cup and Hudson Cup teams.

What lies ahead?

Wakeham isn't certain.

"It's all very indefinite. A good job, first."

Is he considering a professional career?

"Not seriously . . . certainly not if I get the job I want."

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1962—PAGE 19

FLYING START FOR ADMIRAL

New flag officer of the Pacific Coast, Commodore W. M. Landmore, at left, and the officer he replaces, Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, are shown just after they donned Mae Wests before making a helicopter tour of the Esquimalt command today. Admiral Finch-Noyes is retiring after 36 years in the RCN. Commodore Landmore is promoted to Rear-Admiral effective Thursday. (Times photo).

Manitoban, 38, Chosen New Bishop of Victoria

Pope John XXIII has appointed Father Remi de Roo, parish priest of the Church of the Holy Cross, St. Boniface, Man., to be Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria, it was announced from Vatican City today.

At 38, Father de Roo will be one of the youngest bishops in Canada and the first of 13 bishops of Victoria to be born in Western Canada.

He succeeds Bishop James Hill who died in Victoria March 29.

"We are very happy over this appointment," said Father Michael O'Connell, who as vicar capitular has administered the Victoria diocese since Bishop Hill's death.

Father O'Connell telephoned

Father de Roo at his home in St. Boniface this morning and proffered his congratulations.

"He will be consecrated Bishop of Victoria in his home diocese," Father O'Connell said, "and we do not expect him here for at least two months."

Born at Swan Lake, Man., in 1924, Father de Roo was ordained priest at the age of 26. His family is of Flemish origin.

As pastor of Holy Cross, St. Boniface, for the past two years, he cares for more than 2,000 parishioners; assisted by three other priests.

The parish serves the English-speaking Catholics of Norwood, a suburb of St. Boniface.

FOUNDED MAGAZINE

Father de Roo founded and directs a magazine, Inquiry Forum, for exchanges of opinion with non-Roman Catholics, and is director of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, an organization which teaches Christian doctrine to both children and adults.

After studying philosophy and theology at St. Boniface Seminary, he attended the Angelicum University in Rome where he was awarded the degree of doctor of theology.

Subsequently he served as secretary to the Archbishop of St. Boniface and executive secretary of the Manitoba Catholic Conference, which is the organization of the Catholic archbishops and bishops of Manitoba.

54 Properties To Be Auctioned In City Tax Sale

Fifty-four properties, mainly residences, are on the tax sale list to be auctioned Monday at 10 a.m. in City Hall by assessor-collector A. G. Joyce.

Mr. Joyce today said the number would likely dwindle to about a dozen just before the auction as owners pay back-taxes. Last year there were 44 properties on the list at this time.

The properties go on the sale list if taxes have not been paid for three years.

Buyers must pay cash the day of the auction but the properties can be redeemed within one year of sale by the title-holders if they pay the tax bill to the city and 6 per cent interest to the purchaser.

Tories Ask Convention Postponement

'Name' Candidate Party's Big Need

By FRANK RUTTER

Times Legislative Reporter

Vancouver Island Conservatives have launched a move to postpone a leadership convention because "no worthwhile candidates" have come forward.

The convention to choose a new B.C. party leader is planned for Dec. 6 to 8 in Vancouver.

Saanich Provincial Conservative Association passed a resolution suggesting a delay.

'RIDICULOUS'

"It is a ridiculous situation that the leadership convention is early in December with no candidate officially in the field," said Saanich president Jack C. Cox.

Copies of the resolution have been sent to Vancouver party headquarters and local associations across the province.

It has been endorsed by Victoria, Esquimalt-Saanich and Oak Bay groups.

A number of Fraser Valley Tories are "very interested" as well, Mr. Cox said.

The resolution says party delegates are not in a position to vote with confidence at the convention unless they are informed in advance of names and qualifications of candidates.

NAME NEEDED

Mr. Cox said the Conservatives need a well-known, capable man to lead them.

"We don't want any rush job," he said.

There is a current move to draft federal Works Minister E. David Fulton of Kamloops for the post, but so far he has been non-committal.

"I am sure he would be generally acceptable to practically everyone," said Mr. Cox, "but he still isn't an official candidate. Of course if the picture changed we would withdraw our resolution."

INTERESTED

Two other Tories have said they are interested but haven't decided to seek the leadership—former Comox-Alberni MP Harry McQuillan and J. Ferguson Browne, former MP for Vancouver Kingsway.

The Draft-Fulton-Drive is headed by lawyer Gerry Coulter, president of the Point Grey provincial association.

He would like to get Mr. Fulton as candidate for the by-election to be held there some time before Christmas. A nominating convention has been set for Nov. 15.

5,000 CARDS

Mr. Coulter, heading a 12-man committee, has sent out 5,000 cards to British Columbians.

The cards, addressed to Mr. Fulton in Ottawa, say: "Dear Davie, I urge you to return to B.C. to accept the leadership of your party. If you do this you can count on my wholehearted support in this community."

Lutheran Church May Purchase Fairbridge Farm

A major step towards pro-

tectioning the appearance of residential areas and to stop construction of poorly designed homes in the municipality may soon be taken by Saanich council.

Under consideration by the lands and planning committee is a proposal for architectural controls on homes and apartments; town planner Tony Parr disclosed today.

At present, council can not prevent construction of a dwelling irrespective of its architectural design, if it conforms to the building bylaws.

This has resulted in some badly designed homes going up in attractive residential areas," said Mr. Parr. "They tend to depress a residential district and to lower property values."

ON BLENKINSOP

He gave as an example the construction of several homes off Blenkinsop Road.

There is a case where the outside appearances of some homes have affected a beautiful valley," he said.

Mr. Parr said the lands and planning committee plan to have a full discussion at its next meeting.

Architectural controls on buildings is comparatively new to British Columbia, but some cities in eastern Canada have such regulations. The Scandinavian countries have had architectural controls for years.

'CRACKERS BURN NINE-YEAR-OLD'

Nine-year-old Michael Newstead, 908 Kings, is being treated for second and third-degree burns in St. Joseph's Hospital.

A spark ignited Halloween fireworks in his pocket Tuesday evening as he was lighting a firecracker.

Fun or Fury? It's Up to You

Play Safe Appeal From Chiefs

The little story above could have taken the place of this one . . .

The little headline could have been a big one . . .

The little boy could easily have received burns that were fatal . . .

Will there be another little boy tonight?

The question is on the minds of district police and fire departments whose chiefs today pleaded for common sense and care on this explosive night of the year.

All echoed City Fire Chief James Bayliss' Halloween warning:

"Please, boys and girls, have fun, but use common sense when you play with fireworks."

In particular, the chiefs cautioned youngsters against becoming over-excited and unintentionally causing someone's death or damaging property.

Many a Halloween prank could result in disaster for innocent people.

PUNISHMENT

For those who do not choose to be warned, sterner punishment is waiting.

Police in the vicinity have been given orders to crack down hard on vandalism and hooliganism in a Halloween disguise.

In the city all policemen will be on duty who are not on annual leave. They will patrol constantly on foot, on motorcycles and in cars.

In addition, the city parks department will have its own men on duty guarding its property.

CHARGES

"If we find anyone doing wilful damage we'll charge them, that's for sure," warned deputy chief Harry Mercer.

Chief Bert Pearson of Saanich said every available man in the municipality will be on duty. They will be reinforced by 20-odd civil defence policemen.

Men will be posted at every commercial centre all night, and cars with at least two men in them will patrol the rest of Saanich.

Chief Pearson said the worst trouble always began after the "trick or treat" period, when the organized bonfires begin to die down. This is when the teen-age youths begin to prwl in cars, seeking excitement.

Good Musician

An accomplished musician, his chief pleasure was playing the organ and piano.

"He had four old organs and a piano in the storage building and he used to love playing them all," recalls Mr. Baldwin.

"He also played the organ many years for the Grand Lodge of B.C. AF & AM.

"Mr. Duncan was a member of the Vancouver-Quadrangle Masonic Lodge No. 2 for more than 50 years and he was a member of the Scottish Rite."

Kept Old Trucks

Proud of his Scottish thriftiness, he preserved several old trucks in his moving business long after it became semi-dormant—keeping several old relics with hard tires in the storage building garage.

When an occasional moving property came in recent years, he would buy a current vehicle licence and have the work done. He sold the trucks in 1959 and one, an old, hard-tired White machine, now owned by Cantin's is seen every year by Victorians in the May 24 parade.

Others Dwindled

For the past dozen years, Mr. Duncan remained active and a semi-recluse most of his life who was little known in the community except among old Victorians.

A niece from Kelowna is awaited before funeral arrangements are made, little else is known of his family.

Long-time friend and associate Thomas Baldwin, however, recounted some of the salient features of his career.

Medical Student

"Bill was from Glasgow where he had been a medical student but had to leave school because of illness," he said.

"He came here before the turn of the century and his first job was as a travelling spice salesman—in the days when the spices came here by sailing ship."

Victoria Fireworks Ban Suggested By Blackstock

A ban on fireworks throughout Greater Victoria was suggested today by Chief John Blackstock at a city police commission meeting.

He made the suggestion as an alternative to adopting the same regulatory bylaws now effective in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, limiting the sale of fireworks to two days up to and including Halloween.

Victoria allows the sale of fireworks for a week before Halloween, making enforcement a problem throughout the area.

SHOPPING GUIDEItems Selling for Pennies Appeal to Saving Instinct

By Penny Saver

It is so difficult to find items in the penny bracket that Penny feels she must write about each and every one she sees.

Little gadget that Penny saw today costs only 99 pennies (what you might call just under the line) and is a saver as well. It saves you from making needless holes in the wall.

This gadget is four tools in one—magnetic stud finder, directional compass, magnifying lens and a plumb bob.

Magnetic stud finder easily locates wall studs for hanging pictures, mirrors, cabinets and shelves. A directional compass should always be in the pocket of any Scout or camper.

Magnifier is too small to do much reading with, but out camping it might help you locate a silver. Lastly, the plumb bob indicates vertical lines for construction and is handy to have when hanging wall paper.

This four-in-one tool is made of clear plastic and is small enough to fit into a vest pocket.

Still in the penny saver bracket is a mask which protects nose, throat and bronchial tubes from non-toxic nuisance dust. It permits free breathing, clear vision and easy speech. These masks should be worn when spraying poisonous sprays in the garden, spray painting in the house, working in the garage workshop and when caring for the baby if you have a cold.

The mask consists of a metal frame that can be moulded snugly around your face. Included are 25 refills.

Lastly, there's an oyster knife that saves the skin on your fingers. The price—40 pennies. Knife has a shield above the blade which will protect your hands if they should slip when trying to pry open the shell.

WHY GROW OLD?

Sit Down a Minute; Might Make Your Life More Fun

If you are harassed by chronic fatigue so that you find it extremely difficult to take care of your responsibilities and have no energy left at all for other activities, why not try to improve the situation? Life is no fun like that!

If fatigue continues, a complete physical checkup is indicated but there are some simple steps you can try all by yourself. For instance, many women eat a completely inadequate breakfast.

They have a Lowman piece of toast and a cup of coffee and let it go at that or just coffee and fruit juice. They do not suspect that their fatigue may stem from this habit.

Perhaps your diet is low in protein, which is a splendid way to raise blood sugar level and supply energy. Maybe the addition of some protein food at breakfast would make a difference. Proteins are valuable for many reasons, one being that they build energy without inflating the figure.

Some persons find that the habit of eating something in

Bride's Grandmother
A Guest at Wedding

Grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Henry Ferguson, came from Deloraine, Manitoba, to attend the recent wedding of Dawn Carol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Ferguson, 3334 Harald Avenue, and Rolf Harald Johansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant M. Johansen of Prince Rupert.

Baskets of autumn flowers were at the altar for the ceremony in St. Mark's Anglican Church. Canon Robert Willis officiated.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a full-skirted gown fashioned with a basque bodice and sabrina neckline. Chapel-length veil of silk illusion misted from a tiara sparkling with iridescent sequins. Her jewelry was a pearl necklace and earrings. Red roses and white carnations were in her bouquet.

Only attendant, maid of honor, Miss Karen Ferguson, sister of the bride, chose a short dress of Copen blue nylon chiffon, with matching accessories. She carried pale yellow carnations.

Best man was Kenneth R. Messerschmidt.

A wedding cake posed on tulle and flanked by candles centred the bride's table at a reception at the home of the bride's parents. Arrangements of autumn flowers completed the decor. Uncle of the bride, R. Ferrill, proposed the toast to his niece.

Mrs. Grant M. Johansen, mother of the groom, came from Prince Rupert for the wedding.

For a "going-away" outfit the bride wore a white brushed lace sheath dress, black top-coat, tango red accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Pour over cooked Brussels sprouts; chill 2 hours.

Brussels sprouts are served as a separate course. As a salad, they are served chilled, with a sauce of sour cream and white wine, or in a marinade of lime juice, olive oil and herb mustard. When served as a vegetable course, the sprouts are poached very delicately in a good chicken stock or in a light white wine, with a pinch of mace or nutmeg. They may then be finished with an anchovy butter, a sauce mornay or, in the manner preferred by Belgians they may be combined with a puree of chestnuts.

Two envelopes unflavored gelatin, 2 cups chicken stock or bouillon, 1 cup pureed chestnuts (fresh or canned), 1 cup heavy cream, 2 tablespoons dry sherry, ½ teaspoon celery salt, ½ teaspoon white pepper, 1 cup cooked and chopped chestnuts (fresh or canned), marinated Brussels sprouts, given below.

Sprinkle gelatin over ½ cup of the chicken stock to soften; stir over low heat until dissolved. Stir in remaining stock, pureed chestnuts, 1 cup cream, sherry, celery salt and pepper; chill until slightly thickened. Fold in dropped chestnuts; turn into 4-cup mold. Chill until firm; unmold and serve with marinated Brussels sprouts, given below. Makes eight servings.

This Officer's Wife Stayed Home

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Belief that all British army officers' wives spend their lives travelling from one place to another and making new homes wherever their husbands are posted, is a myth as far as Lady Delacombe is concerned.

Wife of Major-Gen. Sir Rohan Delacombe, KBE, CB, DSO, recently retired as general officer commanding in West Berlin, she explains: "My husband's tours of duty outside the British Isles came during the last world war or other times of stress. This meant that the children and I stayed home—at my father's place in Yorkshire—while my husband was away.

HELPED NATIONALS

While in Berlin, Lady Delacombe was active in a group that had as chief interest more than 600 British nationals.

"Many were people who had gone out to Germany in their youth and who had married Germans. Some were very old and quite alone in the world.

Charming guest at Government House at present is Lady Delacombe.

Many Parties for Lynne Stewart

A series of parties have been planned to honor bride-elect Stewart.

The bridal party and close friends of the couple were guests when a cocktail party and buffet dinner was held by Miss Sandra Turner in her home on Foul Bay Road.

Chaucer Street home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Watling was scene of another dinner party given in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith will be hosts at a buffet dinner following the wedding rehearsal. Guests will be Miss Stewart and her fiance, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. B. Cambrey, Lieut. M. Moore, RCN, and Mrs. Moore; Mr. and Mrs. D. Stewart, Mrs. F. W. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Watling, Miss Nancy Dunn, Sub-Lt. Roger Pyper, RCN; Sub-Lt. Jim Lewis and Gordon Dymond.

Gifts of crystal were presented to the bride-to-be when Mrs. J. Abbott and Mrs. W. Abbott entertained in the latter's Hampshire Road home. Pink rosebuds and yellow chrysanthemums in corsages were presented to the guest of honor and beige chrysanthemums to

Tangerine Tone Sets the Decor In Attendants' Gowns, Flowers

Tangerine tones of dresses worn by the attendants was repeated in floral decor at St. Aidan's Church for the recent marriage of Marylyn Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie H. Blow of Saanichton and Murray Eugene Christian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence R. Christian of Sidney.

Maid of honor, Miss Margo Anderson, and bridesmaids, Miss Nelda Bradshaw and Miss Erid Christian, wore the tangerine toned crystal charm gowns with matching shoes and whiskeys in tone. They carried white carnations.

Flower girl, Miss Linda Blow, sister of the bride, wore a white lace and nylon frock and carried a colonial bouquet of tangerine carnations.

Master Russell Blow, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. Baskets of white and tangerine chrysanthemums and white candles provided the decor in the church. Rev. A. G. MacLeod officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon sheer with Swiss lace embroidery enhanced the front panel of the hooped skirt and the empire inspired bodice, which featured a scoop neckline and tulle point sleeves. A crown of seed pearls and nylon sheer held her pouf veil. Tallman roses and white feathered carnations were in her bouquet. Her jewelry was pearl drop earrings, gift of the groom.

During signing of the register the organist played "O Perfect Love."

Brother of the groom, Lynn A. Christian, was best man. Ushers were John Reitan, Bob Fox and Gordon Blow, brother of the bride.

Tangerine color was repeated in carnations at a reception in the Flamingo Room, at the Crystal Garden. White candles with beige accessories and a revives colourfast fabrics!

"Look how JAVEX brightens colours"

Most things are colourfast today, and you can depend on "Javex" to revive the colour that soap or detergent alone cannot. "Javex" brightens colourfast fabrics by removing foreign residue. Add "Javex" to your coloured laundry next washday and you'll see the bright new difference.

After many washings in soap and detergent, this fabric appears dull and lifeless. The natural colour has gone almost to gray. The fabric surface is rough and hard.

"Javex" has lifted and dissolved dirt and grime to restore original brightness of colour. Now there's a better "feel" to the fabric. Looks almost like new.

The wise housewife relies on JAVEX® completely.

DEAR ABBY . . .

The Punch Line!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow over 50 years old. I baby-sit in the neighborhood to earn a few extra dollars. A woman telephoned and asked if I would sit with her two children. She wanted me to come at 5 p.m., give them their supper, bathe them and put them to bed. I asked how much she paid and she said, "Twenty-five cents an hour and all you can eat!" I told her I was sorry and I was busy. I was really insulted and think I could have thought of a better answer for her. What would you have told her?

INSULTED.

DEAR INSULTED: I'd have told her I couldn't eat enough to make it worthwhile.

DEAR ABBY: I am failing geometry because of my teacher. Every time I look at him my stomach does flip flops. He is tall, thin, has blue eyes and sandy hair and wears dark-rimmed glasses. He is not married. I have stayed after school to get special help, but when I'm near him I can't concentrate on what he's saying. My other grades are A's and B's. What should I do?

GOT A CRUSH.

DEAR GOT: The "crush" is sure to pass but you might not unless you pursue a different angle. School is for learning and not for yearning. You had better concentrate on that for the moment.

DEAR ABBY: I am 46 years old and have gone with Miss X for seven years. She is 34, never been married and, believe me I could never find a better wife. She wants to get married between now and Christmas but I don't want to be pressured. I have a few

Unity Sought In Projects

Ways in which Victoria churches could co-operate and so expand the aims of the New Delhi Conference of the World Council of Churches were explored at open meeting of the Afternoon Branch, Woman's Auxiliary of St. John's Anglican Church, held in the upper parish hall. Suggestions included interdenominational study groups and work with boys and leadership training in youth work.

Projects in which churches were already combining efforts include World Day of Prayer, joint ministerial meetings, Canadian Girls in Training, Sunday school rallies, Halloween Save the Children Fund, CHEK's "Life Lines," centennial service, Lenten meetings, "Lessons in Living" and healing prayer groups.

Meeting, which took the form of a panel discussion, was attended by a large audience from many churches. Panel moderator was Canon Hilary Butler.

Four panelists were Rev. Laura Butler, Metropolitan United Church; Miss Winnifred Ripley, deaconess of the Presbyterian churches; Mrs. R. O. Taylor, representing the Anglican Church, and Mrs. W. A. Williams, Grace Lutheran Church.

Bazaar Planned For Saturday

Gymnasium in the Memorial Hall of Christ Church Cathedral will be scene of annual bazaar and tea of the Evening Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary on Saturday, from 2 p.m. General convener is Mrs. A. Welton, auxiliary president. Miss Amy Hall will convene afternoon tea.

Other conveners are: Aprons, woolies, novelties and sewing, Mrs. R. Webster; home cooking, Mrs. M. Laughlin; superfluities, Mrs. L. Godson; plants; Miss Eleanor Fowler and Christmas cards and calendars, Miss Wyn Plummer.

Bazaar Successful

Sum of $125 was realized at annual fall bazaar of the Canadian Daughters' League, Assembly No. 5, held in C and C Hall. Guests were greeted by Mrs. W. C. Pollard, president, and Mrs. E. Dyson, general convener.

Stal conveners were: Aprons and fancywork, Mrs. H. R. Milburn; Mrs. J. C. Peace and Mrs. A. N. Taylor; home cooking, Mrs. G. S. Jasper and Mrs. G. H. Gardiner; novelties and white elephant, Mrs. C. E. Stewart and Mrs. P. J. Corrane; raffles, Mrs. W. E. Akenhead and Mrs. G. M. Mortimer. Mrs. C. J. Penman made the afghan which formed part of raffles.

Mrs. Dyson convened tea arrangements. Assisting her were Mrs. T. Barrie, Mrs. J. E. Earl, Mrs. J. H. Fulton, Mrs. C. J. Penman, Mrs. I. J. Kinsey, Mrs. H. F. Ballantyne, Mrs. V. Noble, Mrs. H. Summers and Mrs. F. Blakeney. Tickets were handled by Mrs. J. M. Whitewell.

Oriental Fashions

An Oriental theme will be featured at the annual bazaar of the United Church Women of Cordova Bay Church this Saturday, in the church hall. A fashion show of authentic dresses of Korea, Japan, Hong Kong and Thailand will be given after the opening of the bazaar at 2:30 p.m., by Mrs. J. M. Alexander. There will be stalls of home cooking, sewing, gifts and novelties, Christmas cards, wrapping and candy. Tea will be served from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Dalene Whitfield Wed in Recent Ceremony

Yellow and white chrysanthemums set the scene in Gorge Presbyterian Church Saturday evening for the wedding of Dalene Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Whitfield, 612 Strandlund Avenue, and Robert Francis Grinyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Grinyer, 482 Cecilia Street. Rev. T. H. McAllister officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a bell-skirted ballerina-length gown of peau de soie. Chantilly lace bodice featured a scalloped neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. Chapel veil poufed from a crown of simulated pearls. She carried a cascade of white satin leaves and yellow Duchess roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Barbara Gardiner chose a turquoise dress of flocked nylon over taffeta and matching bandeau headpiece. Yellow and turquoise streamers were in her bouquet of yellow carnations.

Steve Grinyer, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushees were Jack Grinyer and Cliff Whitfield.

Autumn-toned chrysanthemums centred the buffet table at a reception held in the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. deLure, 2320 Trent Street, have announced the engagement of their eldest daughter, Judith Christine Louise, to Mr. Michael Frederick Sharpe, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Sharpe, 1834 Grandview Drive. The wedding will take place in St. John's Anglican Church on November 10 at 8 p.m. (Photo by Meyers Studios.)

Decor In Halloween Motif

Tangerine dahlias and Halloween motifs decorated tea tables at a bazaar sponsored by the Women's Benefit Association, Review No. 1, on Saturday afternoon. Boxes of Halloween candy and black and orange decor of the candy stall was in keeping with the theme.

Mrs. Katherine Schmelz, review president and a district manager of the WBA, opened the bazaar. Proceeds amounted to approximately $175.

General convener was Mrs. Len Longden. Stall conveners

TODAY'S RECIPE

SAVORY HOLLAND CHEESE LOAF

1 long loaf French bread, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup soft butter, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped onion, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon garlic salt, 1 teaspoon poppy seeds, 3 tablespoons prepared mustard, 2 to 3 drops were: Home cooking, Mrs. H. Graas, Mrs. M. Smith, Mrs. H. Jackson; sewing and fancy work, Mrs. K. Crowther and Mrs. L. Longden; candy, Mrs. W. Harrison; raffles, Mrs. F. R. Morris; superfluities, Mrs. Jack Taylor and Miss C. Schmelz; tickets, Mrs. M. Morley. Assisting the tea conveners, Mrs. K. Jacques and Mrs. W. Ritchie were Mrs. N. Chute, Mrs. I. Barr, Mrs. T. Veal, Mrs. R. Thompson, Mrs. John Vlagers and the Misses Dianie Schmelz and Jacqueline Cox.

Tabasco, $\frac{1}{4}$ pound Holland Edam or Gouda cheese, sliced (12 to 16 slices).

With a long, sharp knife, make a series of diagonal cuts (6 to 8) in bread at $1\frac{1}{2}$ inch intervals, cutting from top almost through to bottom of loaf. Combine butter, onion, garlic salt, poppy seeds, mustard and Tabasco. Mix well. Spread all but about two tablespoons of the mixture on cut surfaces of bread. Place two-cheese slices in each cut. Spread top of loaf with remaining butter mixture. Wrap in foil and store in refrigerator until ready to heat.

Let stand at room temperature 30 minutes before baking. Bake in foil in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes. To serve, remove foil and with long, sharp knife, continue each diagonal cut down through bottom of loaf. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Variation: Substitute an equal amount of caraway or cumin seeds for the poppy seeds.

Challenge By Canada's First Lady

HALIFAX (UPI) — Madame Pauline Vanier, wife of Canada's Governor-General Tuesday called on parents to defend family ties against the "onslaught" of scientific and material progress.

Mrs. Vanier, presented with an honorary degree by King's College, told a special convocation she was afraid the Western world was witnessing the breakdown of the family as the key social unit.

"It seems to me that faith in a religious and moral law is being abandoned slowly for a faith in scientific and economic progress," she said. "The movement toward greater universality and anguish" among the younger generations who lack "a compass with which to direct their course of life". If children were to develop fully in every sense, she added, their development must centre around "the oasis of family life".

"To permit the destruction of this oasis is to take the first step toward destruction, not only of all moral and religious life, but of peaceful society as well," she said.

Mrs. Vanier said she was convinced the answer to this growing problem rested with a "deep, affectionate, loving family life".

Clubwomen's News

Hostesses — The Misses Gore and D. Lim entertained members of Victoria Altrusa Club at a Chinese dinner in the Wesser Crescent home of Mrs. M. E. Davies. Following dinner, plans were finalized for a penny auction to be held early in November. Members brought gifts to be sent to the club's adopted child, Micheleene, and money was voted to provide her with clothing and other necessities. Miss Marion Bolingbroke showed movies of Hong Kong and Japan.

Visitors — At a recent meeting of Carne Rebekah Lodge, No. 45, IOOF, the president of the Rebekah Assembly of British Columbia, Mrs. W. L. Bett, Penticton, made her official visit. She was introduced by Mrs. E. Burton, deputy president of District No. 1. Other special guests were Miss Hazel Van Buren, assembly vice-president; Mrs. Agnes Hampton, secretary; Mrs. Louise Nagle, Mrs. J. Gower; P. Thompson, past grand patriarch; J. Brown, past grand master, also appointed assembly officers and past assembly officers. Refreshments were served under convection of Miss Betty Johnston.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Yellow-haired Melina Mercouri threw herself down full length on a couch and thundered out the news that she doesn't see any good reason that a working actress should get married—so she's going to get married.

"I'm an anarchist," she said, giving it an amusing "ch" sound, as she rested her chin in her hand and waited for a waiter to bring some vodka.

Seemingly in admiration, Producer Jules Dassin, her husband-to-be, waited for the next bulletin, while sitting nearby.

"I'm a naughty girl—but only in America and Greece," proclaimed the fascinating Greek who played Ilya, the lovable prostitute, in "Never on Sunday."

"Because my pictures are condemned in both places."

"No," protested Dassin. "Yes—in Greece, too, the little ones couldn't come to see me in 'Never on Sunday' and now they can't come, too, to see me in 'Phaedra.' I don't think it's right. I want to be seen by the young generation."

DISTURBED CENSORS

In "Phaedra," based on the legend of a king's daughter being in love with her stepson (Tony Perkins), there are some love scenes which disturbed the censors.

Yet, despite her desire that "the little ones" be able to see her emote, Miss Mercouri wants no little ones in her own life and is candid enough to say so for publication and perhaps invite criticism.

One reason, I have not the force to have children and work, too. Some people do but I have not the force to do both good. So my solution is that I don't have children."

Dassin said he didn't agree.

Melina was even more "anarchistic" about marriage. For security, marriage is "hokay," she thought.

"If you can't have a man you love" by any other means than marriage, then by God, marry him!" she said.

"If you travel to America and you must take two rooms and you don't have the money, then marry the guy and save the money," she said, "on the other room."

"And buy dresses!" she added.

"I don't agree with her," Dassin smiled.

OLD-FASHIONED

"He's an old-fashioned American boy," she said. "He wants marriage. And if the man obliges you to marry him, you marry him. So I will marry him and then I will take the alemonni when I divorce him and buy more dresses."

300B.C. Women Owe Lives To Cancer Control Project

Three hundred women are alive today because a special B.C. program cured their fatal cancer.

Thousands more have been treated before the fatal symptoms developed.

The healing formula is cytology.

No other province in Canada has such an extensive cancer control program based on this method of detection.

Cytology is a method of sampling tissues of the cervix or womb.

The B.C. program is run by the B.C. Cancer Society as an agency of the provincial government.

ANNUAL CHECK

It's an annual cancer check for every woman in the province.

Local doctors take the tissue sample and send it to a pathologist at Vancouver General Hospital. He can detect evidence of cancer before any symptoms occur in the body.

Success of the B.C. program has attracted world-wide interest, says an official of the health department.

He said there are a number of cytology research projects under way elsewhere and some other provinces have limited cancer control projects; but none are successful as B.C.'s.

TERRIFIC JOB

Health Minister Eric Martin paid tribute to "the terrific job" being done by the Cancer control project.

U.K. GROCER PAYS FINE

Beer for Baby Okay But Milk Illegal

DARLINGTON, England (AP)—A grocer has been fined for selling a mother milk for a baby after hours—but if he had sold her an alcoholic drink he would not have violated the law.

Said the grocer's lawyer:

"It's a pity the baby wasn't a beer drinker. That would have kept everyone happy."

Joseph Hatfield admitted selling a customer two pints of milk after 8 p.m., the latest time allowed for milk sale by grocers. Hatfield also has a licence to sell alcoholic beverages until 10:30 p.m.

"I'm very strict about observing the closing hour for the sale of beer and spirits," said Hatfield. "But I didn't think I'd be pinched for selling milk."

He was fined £10.

'Drums Of War Still Beat'

LONDON (Reuters) — The Manchester Guardian sharply questions President Kennedy's handling of the Cuban crisis, as Russia reported that a militant mood still prevailed in Washington.

He said the city budgeted for some $90,000 revenue on the authority's property and this was the equivalent of taxes paid by the former B.C. Electric and B.C. Power Commission before the merger.

In addition, the city receives bus franchise payments from the B.C. Hydro-operated transit system.

MORE MONEY?

He was commenting on a report suggesting that the city could have expected more revenue if the old B.C. Power Commission policy of paying 3 per cent of gross revenue in lieu of taxes had been adopted by the hydro authority.

Mr. Bramley pointed out that BCPC never did pay the city the 3 per cent grant but always the equivalent of straight taxes on its property here.

Liquor Stolen

GANGES—RCMP are still investigating a weekend theft of $200 worth of spirits from the liquor store here.

Thieves broke into the front door of the store and ransacked the premises. They also made an attempt to open a safe.

Police also reported an attempted break-in at the Salt Spring Trading Co. store.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS
IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF PERCY HENRY BURDETT DAWSON, late of 1234 Transit Road, Oak Bay, B.C.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that creditors and others having claims against the estate of Percy Henry Burdeett Dawson, deceased, late of Oak Bay, British Columbia, are required to send them to the undersigned. Creditors of the estate of the said deceased, before the 30th day of November, 1962, after which date the Executors will distribute the said estate among the parties thereto, having regard only to the claims of which they then have notice.

CANADA PERMANENT TORONTO GENERAL TRUST COMPANY, P.O. Box 1222, Victoria, B.C.

By their Solicitors, CLAY, MACPHERSON, ELLIS & POFHAM.

Society, and reported its success in statistics, in a radio speech Friday night.

The B.C. government this year budgeted $632,000 for cancer control, half of which will win back in federal grants.

In the last year alone the cytology team processed 93,426 slides containing tissue samples. They discovered 217 cases of early cancer. In the early stages it can be removed with almost 100 per cent assurance the woman will never have symptomatic cancer, said Mr. Martin.

50% FATAL

However, if cancer of the womb does develop to this stage it is 50 per cent fatal.

In the 10 years the cancer control program has been operating half the women in B.C. have been checked—a total of 225,000.

Mr. Martin said 1,280 of them had very early traces of cancer and 700 would have developed serious symptoms.

"More than 300 would have surely died," said Mr. Martin.

"There is great promise here that one major form of cancer can be entirely eliminated," he said.

STATISTICAL PROOF

"This is the only major form of cancer in which there is statistical proof that control of the disease can be achieved by a preventive measure."

He said there has been a 30% per cent reduction in the incidence of cervical cancer in B.C. in the past six years.

Reason B.C.'s program is a co-operation from local doctors everywhere in the province and an intensive education campaign.

"If we can get every woman to have a check once a year we should have this type of cancer licked," said the departmental official.

'Y Pioneer,
T. J. Pascoe,
Dies In South

Thomas J. Pascoe, a native of Victoria and a pioneer member of the local YMCA, died in Santa Monica Hospital, California, last Saturday afternoon.

With other YMCA members, he enlisted for war service with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in 1915 and served in France with the medical corps. His brother, Arthur, was killed in action.

The Pascoe family lived on Caledonia Avenue and Mr. Pascoe was a pitcher for one of the local baseball teams. On his return from war service, Mr. Pascoe joined the composing room staff of The Daily Colonist.

Later he went to California and gained a reputation as one of the best printing stylists in the state. He joined a large firm manufacturing printing equipment and advised and set up many important plants.

Mr. and Mrs. Pascoe made frequent trips to Victoria where they had many friends and relatives. Mr. Pascoe leaves a widow in Playa del Ray, California, two daughters and four granddaughters.

Wins Acquittal

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Nora Lowe, 36, has been acquitted in magistrate's court of a conspiracy charge in connection with the entry into Canada of a Chinese woman.

Magistrate Lorne Jackson dismissed the charge 13 days after a similar decision in the case of the woman's husband, Harvey Lowe, a prominent Vancouver Chinatown businessman and broadcaster.

He was fined £10.

'Drums Of War Still Beat'

LONDON (Reuters) — The Manchester Guardian sharply questions President Kennedy's handling of the Cuban crisis, as Russia reported that a militant mood still prevailed in Washington.

Although the Guardian praises the U.S. president in general terms for his firm measures against Russian missile sites in Cuba, it says "the principle that might is right has gained precedence over the principle that disputes should be settled by peaceful means."

The paper criticizes the president for not consulting U.S. allies in advance of the arms blockade of Cuba and says it was "disquieting that the use of nuclear weapons against the missile sites in Cuba was contemplated at all."

The Washington correspondent of the Soviet Communist party paper Pravda says "the drums of war are still beating" in Washington.

Pravda, quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass, claims "extremely reactionary elements in the United States continue to push the country to the road of adventure."

The Pentagon guns are still aimed at freedom island" but "sane voices are also distinctly heard in America now."

CUBA TALKS

UN Awaits
Report
By Thant

HAVANA (AP) — U Thant, acting secretary-general of the United Nations and Fidel Castro resumed discussions today. Thant was trying to win the Cuban premier's agreement on plans for the UN to verify Moscow's promises of removal of missiles from Cuba.

Several hours after the meeting began, officials at UN headquarters in New York said they had no report on its progress, if any.

An initial two-hour, 10-minute session between Thant and the bearded Cuban leader made no headway Tuesday, informants said.

Castro was reported to have stuck to such demands as abandonment of its Guantánamo naval base in southeastern Cuba.

The United States already has rejected Castro's demands, made last weekend. He also demanded lifting of all economic measures against his regime and guarantees against hit-and-run raids and invasion preparations.

Despite the reported lack of progress at the first session, a spokesman for Thant called the meeting "very useful." A communique issued afterward said "Cuba fixed her position and viewpoints with clarity," which informants said meant Castro was unyielding in his demands.

Havana radio said Castro will speak on radio and television Thursday "to analyze all the problems of the transcendent moment in which the country is living."

Thant is scheduled to return late today to New York, and negotiations for removal of the missiles are expected to open as soon as he gets back.

Cuban Buyers
$275,000
In Default

OTTAWA (CP) — The Crown-owned Export Credits Insurance Corporation has paid out $275,000 in claims in the last two years to cover non-payment by Cuban buyers of Canadian goods, it was disclosed today.

Corporation president Hugh T. Aitken told the Senate banking committee that business done by his corporation with Cuba has slumped to practically nothing from about $20,000,000 a year in 1960.

He said the corporation still was willing to insure exports to the Caribbean country but Canadian exporters had found it too risky and now were dealing almost exclusively on a cash basis.

The corporation was set up 17 years ago to insure Canadian exporters against non-payment by foreign buyers.

Castro Sends
Top Aides

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Fidel Castro is sending two top diplomats to bolster his UN team, rousing speculation that he expects to have a strong voice in any settlement of the Cuban crisis.

Diplomats at UN headquarters were surprised by the announcement from Havana that Castro had assigned Foreign Minister Raúl Roa and Carlos Lechuga, ambassador to Mexico, to his delegation in New York.

U.S. Reduces Size
Of Blockaded Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy has pulled its Cuban blockade fleet into a more compact patrol area, it was learned today.

Exact boundaries of the new picket line were not disclosed. But they were reported well inside the original patrol section which started as much as 600 to 700 miles off Cuba, extending northeast toward Bermuda and eastward to the Virgin Islands.

TEZPHUR, India (AP) — The Chinese Communists are throwing masses of troops at Indian outposts—some even without weapons, a front line report said Tuesday.

An Indian major's account from the battle front said some of the Chinese soldiers in the follow-on waves waited for their comrades to fall dead or wounded and then picked up their rifles and sub-machineguns to charge on.

HUNT FOR OIL

Robot Prowls Ocean Bottom

PORTE HUENEME, Calif. fields hundreds of feet below the ocean's surface, the robot was hauled by company spokesmen as holding the key to vast oil reserves beyond the reach of conventional methods.

Shown publicly for the first time Tuesday, Shell Oil Company's 10-foot-tall robot, a remote-controlled $250,000 gadget that swims, sees, hears and has an arm to turn valves and wield tools.

Designed to help in the drill for Shell and four for customizing and maintenance of oilers he said he could not name.

Manitoban, 38, Chosen New Bishop of Victoria

Pope John XXIII has appointed Father Remi de Roo, parish priest of the Church of the Holy Cross, St. Boniface, Man., to be Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria; it was announced from Vatican City today.

At 38, Father de Roo will be one of the youngest bishops in Canada and the first of 13

Father O'Connell telephoned

Father de Roo at his home in Western Canada. He succeeds Bishop James Hill, who died in Victoria March 29.

"We are very happy over this appointment," said Father Michael O'Connell, who as vicar capitular has administered the Victoria diocese since Bishop Hill's death.

Father O'Connell telephoned

Father de Roo at his home in St. Boniface this morning and proffered his congratulations.

"He will be consecrated Bishop of Victoria in his home diocese," Father O'Connell said, "and we do not expect him here for at least two months."

Born at Swan Lake, Man., in 1924, Father de Roo was ordained priest at the age of 26. His family is of Flemish origin.

As pastor of Holy Cross, St. Boniface, for the past two years, he cares for more than 2,000 parishioners, assisted by three other priests.

The parish serves the English-speaking Catholics of Norwood, a suburb of St. Boniface.

FOUNDED MAGAZINE

Father de Roo founded and directs a magazine, Inquiry Forum, for exchanges of opinion with non-Roman Catholics, and is director of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, an organization which teaches Christian doctrine to both children and adults.

After studying philosophy and theology at St. Boniface Seminary, he attended the Angelicum University in Rome and was awarded the degree of doctor of theology.

Subsequently he served as secretary to the Archbishop of St. Boniface and executive secretary of the Manitoba Catholic Conference, which is the organization of the Catholic archbishops and bishops of Manitoba.

54 Properties To Be Auctioned In City Tax Sale

Fifty-four properties, mainly residences, are on the tax sale list to be auctioned Monday at 10 a.m. in City Hall by assessor-collector A. G. Joyce.

Mr. Joyce today said the number would likely dwindle to about a dozen just before the auction as owners pay back-taxes. Last year there were 44 properties on the list at this time.

The properties go to the sale list if taxes have not been paid for three years.

Buyers must pay cash the day of the auction but the properties can be redeemed within one year of sale by the title-holders if they pay the tax bill to the city and 6 per cent interest to the purchaser.

Public observing periods during November at Dominion Astrophysical Observatory will be 8:10 p.m. Saturday nights.

The periods will be discontinued due to weather conditions between the end of November and the first Saturday of April.

A former commandant of the British sector in Berlin will discuss the situation in that troubled city in a public lecture tonight at Canadian Services College, Royal Roads.

Major-General Sir Rohan Delacombe, who was in Berlin from mid-1959 until this year, will give his talk at 8 p.m.

It is the third in a series of special lectures being given on the college's quarterdeck in the Grant Block. All the cadets will attend the lecture.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Is Vancouver Island as large as Ireland? D.B.

A. No. Vancouver Island is only about one-half the size of Ireland as its area is 12,408 square miles as compared to the Emerald Isle's 27,137 square miles.

Q. Which animal is the most valuable fur bearer on earth? G.E.J.

A. The royal chinchilla.

Tories Ask Convention Postponement

'Name' Candidate Party's Big Need

By FRANK RUTTER

Times Legislative Reporter

Vancouver Island Conservatives have launched a move to postpone a leadership convention because "no worthwhile candidates" have come forward.

The convention to choose a new B.C. party leader is planned for Dec. 6 to 8 in Vancouver.

Saanich Provincial Conservative Association passed a resolution suggesting a delay.

'RIDICULOUS'

"It is a ridiculous situation that the leadership convention is early in December with no candidate officially in the field," said Saanich president Jack C. Cox.

Copies of the resolution have been sent to Vancouver party headquarters and local associations across the province.

It has been endorsed by Victoria, Esquimalt-Saanich and Oak Bay groups.

A number of Fraser Valley Tories are "very interested" as well, Mr. Cox said.

The resolution says party delegates are not in a position to vote with confidence at the convention unless they are informed in advance of names and qualifications of candidates.

'NAME' NEEDED

Mr. Cox said the Conservatives need a well-known, capable man to lead them.

"We don't want any rush job," he said.

There is a current move to draft federal Works Minister E. Davis Fulton of Kamloops for the post, but so far he has been non-committal.

"I am sure he would be generally acceptable to practically everyone," said Mr. Cox, "but he still isn't an official candidate. Of course if the picture changed, we would withdraw our resolution."

INTERESTED

Two other Tories have said they are interested but haven't decided to seek the leadership: former Comox-Alberni MP Harry McQuillan and J. Ferguson Browne, former MP for Vancouver Kingsway.

The Draft-Fulton-Drive is headed by lawyer Gerry Coulter, president of the Point Grey provincial association.

He would like to get Mr. Fulton as candidate for the by-election to be held there some time before Christmas. A nominating convention has been set for Nov. 15.

5,000 CARDS

Mr. Coulter, heading a 12-man committee, has sent out 5,000 cards to British Columbians.

The cards, addressed to Mr. Fulton in Ottawa, say: "Dear Dave, I urge you to return to B.C. to accept the leadership of your party. If you do this you can count on my wholehearted support in this community."

Lutheran Church May Purchase Fairbridge Farm

A farm four miles south of Duncan, used at one time as a home for underprivileged British youngsters, may be turned into a home for the aged and a Bible school by the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada.

The church's Pacific conference has taken a three-month lease on the 70 acres and 22 buildings of Fairbridge Farm School, Rev. Victor Propst of the Lutheran Church of the Cross confirmed in Victoria today.

He said that purchase of the property will depend on the result of studies now being made as to the farm's suitability for the church's purpose. A big factor is the cost of needed renovations, he said.

The asking price for the property is $250,000.

Mr. Propst said the Pacific conference wants a home for aged persons and for social services. If the farm is taken over, a Bible school will also be established there and a long-term ambition would be to convert it into a junior college, he said.

The Evangelical Lutheran Church of Canada is a part of the American Lutheran Church.

'CRACKERS BURN NINE-YEAR-OLD'

Nine-year-old Michael Newton, 608 Kings, is being treated for second and third-degree burns in St. Joseph's Hospital.

A spark ignited Halloween fireworks in his pocket Tuesday evening as he was lighting a firecracker.

Fun or Fury? It's Up to You

Play Safe Appeal From Chiefs

The little story above could have taken the place of this one...

The little headline could have been a big one...

The little boy could easily have received burns that were fatal...

Will there be another little boy tonight?

The question is on the minds of district police and fire departments whose chiefs today pleaded for common sense and care on this explosive night of the year.

All echoed City Fire Chief James Bayliss' Halloween warning:

"Please, boys and girls, have fun, but use common sense when you play with fireworks."

In particular, the chiefs cautioned youngsters against becoming over-excited and unintentionally causing someone's death or damaging property.

Many a Halloween prank could result in disaster for innocent people.

PUNISHMENT

For those who do not choose to be warned, sterner punishment is waiting.

Police in the vicinity have been given orders to crack down hard on vandalism and hooliganism in a Halloween disguise.

In the city all policemen will be on duty who are not on annual leave. They will patrol constantly on foot, on motorcycles and in cars.

In addition, the city parks department will have its own men on duty guarding its property.

CHARGES

"If we find anyone doing wilful damage we'll charge them, that's for sure," warned deputy chief Harry Mercer.

Chief Bert Pearson of Saanich said every available man in the municipality will be on duty. They will be reinforced by 20 odd civil defence policemen.

Men will be posted at every commercial centre all night, and cars with at least two men in them will prowl the rest of Saanich.

Chief Pearson said the worst trouble always began after the "trick or treat" period, when the organized bonfires begin to die down. This is when the teen-age youths begin to prowl in cars, seeking excitement.

PRAY FOR RAIN

"That's why we pray for rain after about 11 p.m.," the chief said, "but it doesn't look as if we'll get it tonight."

Oak Bay also is reinforcing its men, all of whom will be on duty, with special police. Particular attention will be given to schools and commercial areas.

In the earlier part of the evening, supervised festivities will be held in all areas.

ORGANIZED PARTIES

Community bonfires will be held in Saanich at Braefoot Park, Tillicum Garden Apartments and Sacred Heart School after dark; in Oak Bay at the Firehall from 6:30 p.m. in Central Hall at 8 p.m. at the Colwood Firehall from 7 p.m. at Langford Fire Hall from 6:30 p.m. at McPherson Firehall from 6 p.m.; at Sooke Community Hall from 6:45 p.m. in View Royal at the houses of Mrs. Percy Ross, Admirals Road, and Mrs. White on Kinham Place; at Bullen Park and the Colville Road ball park in Esquimalt, and Victoria Boys' Club also will have a party in the Yates Street clubhouse at 7 p.m.

Fireworks Ban Suggested By Blackstock

A ban on fireworks throughout Greater Victoria was suggested today by Chief John Blackstock at a city police commission meeting.

He made the suggestion as an alternative to adopting the same regulatory bylaws now effective in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, limiting the sale of fireworks to two days up to and including Halloween.

Victoria allows the sale of fireworks for a week before Halloween, making enforcement a problem throughout the area.

GAGLARDI 'SHOPPING' IN JAPAN

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi has gone to Japan. His office here said he was on government business.

However, it is believed he has gone to inspect some machinery which the government is considering buying.

Mr. Gaglardi left on the weekend and was in Tokyo today.

He will be away until mid-November.

"He may join B.C. members of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, who left last week for a month-long tour at the invitation of four big Japanese business groups.

Home Designs In Saanich- Upset Planner

A major step towards protecting the appearance of residential areas and to stop construction of poorly designed homes in the municipality may soon be taken by Saanich council.

Under consideration by the lands and planning committee is a proposal for architectural controls on homes and apartments, town planner Tony Parr disclosed today.

At present, council can not prevent construction of a dwelling, irrespective of its architectural design, if it conforms to the building bylaws.

"This has resulted in some badly designed homes going up in attractive residential areas," said Mr. Parr. "They tend to depress a residential district and to lower property values."

Nehru Ousts Menon From Defence Post

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru tonight took over the defence ministry post from V. K. Krishna Menon amid growing protest over Indian setbacks in the border war with Communist China.

Menon was appointed minister in charge of defence production and will continue as a cabinet member.

Menon's replacement was demanded by a faction of Nehru's ruling Congress Party that claimed he had failed to build up Indian defences to meet the massive assaults by Chinese forces.

His replacement came amid reports of a new Indian offensive in the eastern sector of the 2,500-mile Chinese-Indian frontier.

An Indian defence ministry spokesman disclosed that Russia is continuing to deliver military equipment to India.

The spokesman said the Soviet military equipment was delivered before the heavy border fighting broke out earlier this month but was being delivered according to schedule. However, he declined to dis-

EX-GOVERNOR

Caution Urged On Bank Change

OTTAWA (CP) — Graham Towers, ex-governor of the Bank of Canada, has taken a stand against current proposals to give the government power to issue directives to the central bank in case of a split over monetary policy.

However, he says that if there were legislation of this kind in Canada, the Australian system—where Parliament is told of the directive within 15 sitting days—would be "least harmful," though he would prefer public disclosure right away.

Mr. Towers, governor of the bank for 20 years until he was succeeded by James E. Coyne in 1955, was appearing today at an in-camera session of the royal commission on banking and finance. Mr. Coyne was given a private hearing last week.

Meanwhile, the commission made public a copy of Mr. Coyne's 17-page brief shortly before the hearing. No brief had been prepared by Mr. Coyne, who resigned last year after a dispute in which the government unsuccessfully asked Parliament to fire him.

With the Coyne affair in mind, dozens of witnesses heard by the commission since last week.

Joseph Fortier, supervising customs agent, said the men were cruising down the Miami River toward Biscayne Bay aboard a 32-foot cabin cruiser which bore no registry number or name.

They apparently didn't want the boat identified, Fortier said.

THANT RUNS INTO HITCH WITH CUBA

Earth 'Taped' By 'Firefly'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A flashing light "firefly" satellite soared into orbit today to measure the size and shape of the earth in an experiment that could produce more accurate world maps and establish guide lines for tracking men to the moon.

The 335-pound satellite rocketed from Cape Canaveral at 3:08 a.m. EST atop a Thor-Able-Star booster. An hour later the defense department announced it was in a successful orbit about 700 miles above the earth.

Officials reported that clear signals were being received from the payload.

Because the rocket was fired on a northeast heading in the direction of Russia, the defense department announced time and direction of launching in advance. Sources said this was done to alert the Soviet Union in order that the Russians would not mistake the rocket for a hostile missile.

HAS GAS LIGHT

Official name of the satellite is Anna 1-B, with the letters standing for army, navy, NASA and air force, the participating agencies. NASA is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The "firefly" nickname derives from four high-intensity xenon gas lights designed to be photographed against a background of stars as they flash on and off at designated times.

The blinking beacons—plus other precise radio, navigation and tracking instruments—were to help ground stations calculate distances on the globe and the general shape of the earth's surface and strength of its gravitational field with accuracy not possible before.

Officials said the flashes would not be visible with the naked eye but that anyone with binoculars would be able to spot them if he knew where and when to look.

Planners involved in putting American astronauts on the moon consider such geodetic satellites essential for pinpointing distances between earth tracking stations and for plotting the gravitation forces.

HUNT FOR OIL

Robot Prowls Ocean Bottom

PORT HUENEME, Calif. (AP) — The first of an army of underwater robots—capable of opening to explore the mysterious world now hidden by water—has gone to work.

Planners involved in putting American astronauts on the moon consider such geodetic satellites essential for pinpointing distances between earth tracking stations and for plotting the gravitation forces.

Designed to help in the drilling and maintenance of oil fields, the robot is said to be able to work at depths of 1,000 feet below the ocean's surface, the robot was hailed by company spokesmen as holding the key to reaching oil reserves beyond the reach of conventional methods.

Dr. J. W. Clark of Hughes Aircraft Company, which built the robot for Shell, said deep water drilling is just one of many uses ahead for these mechanical men.

Dr. Clark said his firm has built six submarine robots, two for Shell and four for customizing and maintenance of oil fields he said he could not name.

Soviet Decision Angers Chinese

PEKING (Reuters) — The hands of the U.S. aggressor stretched out for an invasion of Cuba and defend the Cuban revolution.

Russia's decision to dismantle missile bases in Cuba was reported here Monday in a one-paragraph story on the inside pages of all newspapers.

Nearly all informed observers in Peking, including Western, neutral and Communist diplomats, saw the editorial in the Communist party newspaper as a reflection of Chinese displeasure at the Soviet decision, which they consider as a climbdown under U.S. threats.

The editorial, printed across the top half of the newspaper's front page, said "the most urgent task of all peace-loving people in the world" now was to "resolutely oppose U.S. imperialism's military provocations and war threats against Cuba, hold back the bloody

SOVIET BACKS CHINESE REDS

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic sources today said the Soviet Union has informed India that the Kremlin must give Communist China diplomatic backing in any show-down over the undeclared border war raging in the Himalayas.

The Soviet position apparently was prompted by fears that support for India could trigger an open rift between Moscow and Peking.

The corporation said it also is reluctant to damage further his prestige within the Communist camp following his order to withdraw missiles from Cuba by lining up with India against a Communist ally.

Survey Team Returns

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant ended his Havana talks with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro today amid indications that he had run into difficulties in arranging for United Nations inspection of Soviet missile removal.

Authoritative sources said Thant had cancelled plans to leave behind in Cuba a group of UN officials to serve as a nucleus of an inspection team.

These sources said the entire group of 20, 10 of whom flew to Havana only this morning, was returning to UN headquarters here with Thant.

The acting secretary-general already had asked a number of governments to furnish army officers to join the group after he worked out the expected arrangements.

A communiqué issued at the end of the talks said there was a candid exchange of views in a cordial atmosphere.

The communiqué added that the discussions between the secretary-general and the government of Cuba will be continued, with a view toward achieving a peaceful solution of the problem.

The statement also said there was general agreement that the United Nations should participate in the settlement of the problem.

ALL POINTS COVERED

All the points raised in the secretary-general's letter of last Sunday were discussed, the communiqué said.

These points were:

1. That a solution would be reached by which the principle of respect for the sovereignty of Cuba would be assured.

2. Action should be taken which would reassure other countries which have felt themselves threatened by recent developments in Cuba.

There was no mention of any agreement on inspection machinery.

Havana radio said Castro will speak on radio and television Thursday "to analyze all the problems of the transcontinental moment in which the country is living."

Cuban Buyers $275,000 In Default

OTTAWA (CP) — The Crown-owned Export Credits Insurance Corporation has paid out $275,000 in claims in the last two years to cover non-payment by Cuban buyers of Canadian goods, it was disclosed today.

Corporation president Hugh T. Aitken told the Senate banking committee that business done by his corporation with Cuba has slumped to practically nothing from about $2,000,000 a year in 1960.

He said the corporation still was willing to insure exports to the Caribbean country but Canadian exporters had found it too risky and now were dealing almost exclusively on a cash basis.

The corporation was set up 17 years ago to insure Canadian exporters against non-payment by foreign buyers.
